KING EDWARD ILL!

Condition of the British Monarch is Very Serious and Worst is Feared.

AN OPERATION PERFORMED

The Illness Has Caused an Indefinite Postponement of the Coronation Ceremonies—There is Much Anxiety in London.

LATEST NEWS FROM BED SIDE

LONDON, June 25.—The condition of King Edward is serious and the coronation ceremonies have been indefinitely postponed.

Sir Francis Knollys, the king's private secretary, has issued an official medical announcement as follows:

"The king is suffering from perityphlitis. His condition on Saturday was so satisfactory that it was hoped that with care his majesty would be able to go through the ceremony. On Monday evening a recrudescence became mani fest, rendering a surgical operation necessary Tuesday."

The operation on the king was successfully performed at 2 o'clock and the king fell asleep.

At 2:46 p. m., the following bulletin was posted at Buckingham Palace:

"The operation has been successfully performed. A large abscess has been evacuated. The king has borne the operation well and is in a satisfactory condition."

The first news of the renewed illness of the king came from the house of commons, where various court officials gave an intimation that the arrangements for Thursday would better be suspended forthwith; as the coronation would be postponed indefinitely on account of the indisposition of his majesty.

The sudden announcement of the postponement of the coronation, just on the eve of the ceremony, caused the utmost consternation everywhere. The news spread like wildfire. The tens of thousands of occupants of the streets suddenly stood still from the shock and gazed at one another in silent dread of what might come next.

On Saturday and Sunday society was discussing the reports of the King's illness and though the circumstantiality, detail and sources from which they came precluded entire disbelief, there was a disposition to doubt the stories, and when the positive, categorical denial was officially issued they were dismissed as being unfounded.

Hemorrhoids, apoplexy and lumbago were a few of the King's maladies discussed in the clubs and drawing rooms, and those discussing them recalled the stories how the King, even quite recently, reiterated his belief that he would never live to be crowned.

On the stock exchange the effect of the startling news was immediate. Prices weakened, led by consols with a fall of half a point.

His majesty, under ordinary conditions was not looked upon as a good subject for operations and, though the King passed successfully through the ordeal, it s believed that four or five weeks must elapse before he will be able to undergo the arduous labors of the coronation ceremonies. Therefore no date can yet be indicated for carrying out the coronation.

Official announcements of the King's serious illness were made to public bodies as speedily as possible.

At the request of Lord Esher, the deputy governor made a statement, as follows:

"I have to make a very sad announcement. The King is suffering from an illness which makes an operation necessary today. The coronation is, therefore, postponed."

The bishop requested the congregation to join in the litany out of the coronation service and pray for the recovery of the King.

The King expressed to the Lord Mayor his desire that his majesty's dinner to the poor of London be not postponed.

Sir Francis Knollys informed a representative of the Associated Press at 4.30 p. m. that there had been practically no change since the operation. "His majesty" he said, "continues to sleep well and is progressing satisfactorily. There is no question, however, that the king's condition is extremely critical."

The cabinet council which lasted an hour, was held Tuesday evening at Mr. Balfour's room, in the house of commons. It is understood that it was arranged to carry on as far as possible public business requiring the king's approval and signature without reference to his majesty, in order to insure absolute mental and physical rest and quietude throughout what the ministers hope will be the period of convalescence.

The following bulletin was issued at 11.10 p. m.

"The king's condition is as good as could be expected after so serious an operation. His strength is maintained, there is less pain and his majesty has taken a little nourishment.

"It will be some days before it will be possible to say that King Edward is out of danger."

LONDON, June 25.—At 1 o'clock this morning the Associated Press learned that King Edward was as well as could be expected and that every thing was progressing satisfactory.

4:25 A. M.—Sir Frederic Trevis, Sir Francis Larking and Sir Thomas Barlow, remained at Buckingham palace all night. The Associated Press learns that about midnight, last night, his majesty enjoyed some refreshing sleep. It is not likely that any further bulletin of the king's condition will be issued before 7 o'clock this morning.

4:50 A. M.—At twenty minutes past 4 4 o'clock this morning the officer of the guard at Buckingham Palace informed a representative of the Associated Press that he understood there was no development in the king's condition. At that hour the palace was everywhere closed and there were no signs of life about the building, except the sentries outside and a small lot of messengers and reporters.

LATER.

Although reports are current that King Edward is dead the following telegram received just as we were going to press contradicts such reports, and we join with the whole American people in the prayer that his life may be spared to his country.

Special to the Bellefonte Republican.

New York, June 25, 1902.—It has been officially announced to the House of Commons at eight o'clock this evening that the King is free from pain, and his progress towards recovery satisfactory. Has passed a fairly comfortable day.

Closing Exercises of Parochial School

The exercises at the Parochial School held Tuesday afternoon in the school building on Bishop Street were very pleasant and entertaining. The school numbers about 100 scholars and is under the care and direction of the sisters of the Immaculate Heart, who are cultivated, refined and educated ladies, and who, by their earnest labor, have brought the school to the highest standard. Those taking part in the exercises acquitted themselves in a most creditable manner, and the bright, happy faces of the scholars attested to their enjoyment of the occasion. Rev. McArdle takes great interest in the educational developement of the children connected with his church, and is abreast with the times, in keeping up the supplies and latest appliances for the training of the young "idea." One of the most pleasant features was the awarding of prizes, and for this purpose in order to stimulate an incentive to excel. our townsman Ex-Gov. D. H. Hastings last week, before leaving for Europe, sent Father McArdle fifty dollars, to be given in prizes to those who by any special merit, should receive them, and which were awarded as follows:

For general excellency throughout the school year in the different classes.

First class	Anthony Brown	$10.00
Second "	Agnes Shaughnessy	9.00
Third "	Benedict Beezer	8.00
Fourth "	Andrew McCafferty	7.00
Fifth "	Helen Hull	6.00
Sixth "	Arthur Brown	5.00
Seventh "	Anna Graham	3.00
Eighth "	Basil Mott	2.00

Miss Marie Walsh a gold medal for proficiency in music.

—It seems a little fishy, but Archy. Allison the plumber told us Tuesday, that since this cold snap has reached Bellefonte, his men are kept busy thawing out Hydrants and water pipes, we would'nt believe a word of it if he had not told us so himself and you know plumbers are proverbial for their truthfulness.

—The stork paid a visit at the home of our big hearted friend, Grant Hoover, Tuesday, staying long enough to leave a sweet little girl, to brighten the lives of its parents. We regret, however, that Mrs. Hoover is not so well as we would hope, but trust she will soon be restored to perfect health, to enjoy this greatest of all earthly blessings.

BRYAN'S ABSENCE.

Little Need to Conjecture as to His Reasons for Being Away from Banquet.

ATTACKS GROVER CLEVELAND

Says There Can Be no Such Thing as Democratic Harmony Where ex-President is Concerned.

SOME WARM WORDS OF INVECTIVE

LINCOLN, Neb., June 24.—The absence of W. J. Bryan from the democratic harmony dinner at New York, is pretty well explained by a statement given out by Mr. Bryan last evening, commenting on the dinner. At the outset, Mr. Bryan says there is no such thing as democratic harmony where former President Cleveland is concerned. He says:

"The banquet given on the evening of June 19 by the Tilden club of New York city, was advertised as a 'harmony meeting,' but it turned out to be what might have been expected of such a gathering, an ovation to the chief guest, former democrat, Grover Cleveland. There can be no such thing as harmony between men like him, and those who believe in democratic principles, and he is frank enough to say so. He spent no time looking for 'middle ground,' upon which to gather together discordant elements. He boldly called upon the members of the party to abandon their convictions and accept the construction which he placed on democrat principles. He even taunted the party with being a sort of prodigal son, and invited it to give up its diet of husks and return to its father's house.

"He spoke of his 'retirement from political activity,' and said: 'Perhaps there are those who would define my position as one of banishment instead of retirement. Against this I shall not enter a protest. It is sufficient for me in either case that I have followed on the matters of differences within our party, the teachings and counsel of the great democrat, in whose name party peace and harmony were last night invoked. No confession of party sin should, therefore, be expected of me. I have none to make; nor do I crave political absolution.'

"He not only boasted of his course, but put his brand upon those who sat at meat with him. Having asserted that his democratic faith compelled him to leave the party (or resulted in his banishment) he described the banqueters as sharing in that faith.

"He is not only defiant, but he insists that party success can be secured only by an open and avowed return to his ideas. Harmony is to be secured not by the suppression of differences but by the elimination of those who differ from him."

Mr. Bryan says he will print in his paper Mr. Cleveland's speech, "To show that the re-organizers do not want harmony, but control, and that their control means the abandonment of the party's position and a return to the politics and practices of Mr. Cleveland's second administration."

"He (Cleveland) secured his nomination in 1892 by a secret bargain with the financiers; his committee collected from the corporations and spent the largest campaign fund the party ever had, he filled his cabinet with corporation agents and placed railroad attorneys on the United States bench to look after the interests of their former clients. He turned the treasury over to a Wall street syndicate and the financial member of his official family went from Washington to become the private attorney of the man who forced (?) the treasury to sell him government bonds at 105 and then resold them at 117. He tried to prevent the adoption of the income tax provision. He refused to sign the only tariff reform measure passed since the war and while thundering against the trusts in his messages, did even less than Knox has done to interfere with their high handed methods.

"His administration instead of being a fountain of democracy, sending forth pure and refreshing streams, became a stagnant pool from whose waters vapors arose, poisonous to those who lingered near.

"Having debauched his party, he was offended by its effort to reform and gave comfort to the enemy. Virginius killed his daughter to save her chastity, Cleveland stabbed his party to prevent its return to the paths of virtue.

"And now, still gloating over his political crimes, he invites the party to return to him and apologize for the contempt which it has expressed for him. Will it? Not until the principles of Jefferson are forgotten and the works of Jackson cease to inspire.

"If we are to have reform, Cleveland himself should accept the presidential nomination—it would be due him. His reinstatement would be poetic justice to him and retribution to those whose democratic conscience revolted against his undemocratic conduct. Of course, he would get no democratic votes, but being closer to plutocracy than any republican likely to be nominated, he might divide the enemy, and even democrats would have what little consolation would come from receiving their disappointment in advance.

Democrats Off For Convention at Erie.

Hon. John A. Woodward, prospective Democratic Candidate for Governor, with a large contingent embarked Monday evening, in the magnificent Pullman Car, "Clifton Forge," bound for Erie. As some of the delegation were already packed away early in the afternoon we could not learn their names, but the following were the occupants of the car: Hon. W. C. Heinle, Hon. Robert Foster, Hon. P. Gray Meek, Hon. John T. McCormick, Hon. James Schofield, Dr. John F. Robinson, Frank Naginey, M. S. McDowell, Prof. L. E. Reber, W. F. Smith, Pierce Musser, William Noll, John J. Bower, L. A. Schaeffer, Capt. W. C. Patterson, D. F. Fortney, W. Miles Walker, Ellis L. Orvis, Joseph Rightnour, James Corl, Frank P. Blair, H. A. Moore, A. J. Weber, Rothrock Gardner, Hammond Seebler, Weston Smith, David Meyer and John Noll. They must intend to spend the greater part of the time in the car, judging from the provision (?) which they carried to it, and it is not all groceries either.

We are glad to note that they have had the foresight to take a physician with them, and we will venture to say, that Dr. Robinson will know what to provide in the way of medicine, but what they want with Frank Naginey we can't understand, unless they wish him to make a practical demonstration of the merits of his new embalming fluid. Col. Woodward is to be congratulated upon the character and number of the delegation, as they represent the best element of the party, and personally we hope the Col. will win, as he is a good citizen, an intellectual man and has the ability to handle the reigns of our state government.

—R. B. Taylor, the coal dealer, has purchased two "dandy" bay horses.

—Mrs. Nora Brown, of East Lamb street left Monday for Philadelphia where she will enter the University hospital and be treated for cancer on the forehead and lips. Mrs. Brown has been a patient sufferer for a long time and it is sincerely hoped that something can be done to relieve her of that constant pain. She was accompanied there by Dr. George B. Klump, their family physician.

—The Fourth of July ordinance relative to the shooting of explosives is already being badly fractured in different sections of the town. People do not object so much to the noise on the Fourth, but they can see no reason why it should start up two weeks before the holiday and continue without intermission, not even having regard or respect for that quiet that should obtain on the Lord's day.

—The meat industry is thriving in Bellefonte, which is owing to the fact, that you can get no better anywhere, and people from a distance when they want anything extra in that line send here for it. Mr. William A. Lyon informs us that Monday, he shipped $80. worth to Tyrone and Altoona. William, handles nothing but the finest quality, and consequently has no trouble in finding customers.

—Brigadier W. A. McIntyre of Buffalo, New York, who has charge of the Western New York and North western Pennsylvania Province of the Salvation Army delivered a very forceful sermon in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. He also addressed the W. C. T. U. meeting in the Petrikin Hall at 2:30 in the afternoon. In the evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Salvation Army Hall, the Brigadier presided over a meeting and enrolled into the order the following members: Miss Switzer, Miss Wilson and Messrs Lucas and Mulberger.

—Editor George Meek is putting on a good many airs, just because little Wilson Ard, son of Joseph B. Ard, of Pine Grove Mills, brought him a jar of apple-butter. Wilson is a clever little fellow, but it is a pity he wasted his kindness on Brother Meek. Now, if he had brought that apple-butter to this office we would have appreciated it a great deal more, because it is the kind of diet we are not accustomed to and it would have been a great luxury to us. Somehow, we never get much of the good that is going.

MITCHELL'S STATEMENT

National President of Mine Workers Sets Forth the Miners' Cause.

HOUSES SEARCHED FOR ARMS

If Claims of Men are not Proved Just the Strike Will be Declared Off at Once.

STRONG PLEA FOR ARBITRATION

WILKESBARRE, June 23.—President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers of America, Sunday issued an address to the public for publication in the newspapers to-day. It is partly a reply to the letters of the operators declining to accede to the demands of the union, which were published about ten days ago.

Briefly summarized, the address says that every possible means was resorted to in the effort to prevent the strike, claims that the cost of living has increased to the point where the miner was compelled to ask for higher wages, denies the allegations of the operators that the productive capacity of the mine workers had fallen off, but, on the other hand has increased; quotes official figures to substantiate the contention that the employers can pay higher wages without increasing the cost to the consumer, asserts that the coal carrying railroads which control about eighty-five per cent. of the mines absorb the profits of their coal companies by charging exorbitant freight rates; claims that a ton at the miners means anywhere from 2,740 to 2,190 pounds instead of 2,240 and says that more men are killed and injured in the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania anually than were killed or wounded during the Spanish-American war.

The address also says that in event the union is crushed, which, it adds, is not likely, a new organization would rise from its ruins. It concludes with another appeal for arbitration of all the questions in dispute.

PATERSON, N. J. June 23.—There was no disorder here Sunday, though the streets were filled with curious people from other places who came to see the militia at their posts.

Mayor Hinchcliffe issued a proclamation calling attention to the ordinances which prohibit the setting off of firecrackers, other explosives, and the firing of pistols, guns, etc.; the carrying of concealed weapons and the storage of explosives. He deemed this necessary because of the Fourth of July spirit which is just beginning to manifest itself. He holds that explosive noises tend to draw crowds and that recent sales of weapons by the stores of the city indicate that large numbers of people are carrying them.

Several houses in the Italian quarter were visited by the police yesterday, who searched them for arms, but the visits brought no result.

The militia is still on guard at the mills and some men of the details are stationed at the upper windows of each place, armed with rifles. The general orders are to shoot to kill if a mob appears. The weavers are divided into two sections, one portion favoring going to work in the morning regardless of existing conditions. Just about half, however, are talking in a different vein. They object to working under the protection of soldiers. They claim there is no need of soldiers being detailed in the mills and they talk of stayout until the troops depart just to show the employers that they can do so without committing violence.

—You may talk about fun, but the little chaps who came to our sanctum Saturday in great glee to show us an eel they had caught opposite the laundry were just as happy a party as you ever saw, and felt just as good as Pierpoint Morgan does when he captures a line of ocean steamers. There were just ten of them and each one claimed a share in the glory.

—Book agents are almost as plentiful as were the caterpillars a short time ago. Of course, they are not as distasteful as the caterpillar, but they should not be permitted to weave a tiny web around school boards by presenting books, pencils, etc. School books should be selected on their merits, regardless of anything else.

—Sugar Valley campmeeting will open August 19, at Booneville, and close August 28. Tents are already being engaged.

Ex-Governor Pattison Nominated.

Ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison received the nomination for Governor at the Democratic Convention held at Erie.

Concerning Water Street.

Our readers will remember that in the latter part of last February, there was a reshet in Spring Creek, such as never before, which caused a great deal of damage, particularly in this vicinity. Among the other things were the boardwalks along Water street which belong to the borough. The portion of the walks from High Street Bridge to the water works has been repaired in a temporary manner, but the one leading from the bridge to the Central R. R. Station is in the same condition as it was left by the ravages of the flood. Since that time every one wishing to traverse Water Street, has to go through mud or dust, and as the result, passengers coming and going on the Central Road take some other route to get into town. At almost every meeting of the council, the Street Committee, will report some sidewalk or gutter in bad condition, then Col. Reynolds, president of the council, will direct Tommy Shaughnessy to notify the owner or owners, that unless repairs are made within ten days the council will do so and charge the bill to the property owners. This is right, but the borough has over one thousand feet of side walk on Water Street, which is almost impassible, and has been in this condition these many months. Is this fair? The business men and tax payers in the lower portion of town, are not being treated as they deserve, for it almost entirely cuts off that trade, and besides a great amount of stone has been piled in the creek at the rear of of Bellefonte Fuel and Supply Company's yard, which has diverted the course of the stream that it is continually washing away what is left of the Street.

We have been informed that the Lehigh Valley Coal Company are going to build a wall six feet high to protect their property from any future overflow of water. This will prevent it from spreading in that direction, which will naturally force it over the street. Now, gentlemen of the council is this right? At the last meeting when the president called for the report of the Committees Mr. Derstine, chairman of the Street Committee, reported that nothing had been done in this matter, but intimated that probably sometime in the future, it may be attended to. Last year several thousand dollars were spent by the Street Committee, and but a small fraction went towards permanent improvements now we suggest that this be made a permanent improvements by building a wall on the line of the old boardwalk sufficiently high, that no flood can wash over it, and if necessary fill up the street to the same height, building a walk on top of it to extend as far over the bed of the creek as possible in order to widen the street and put an iron or ornamental wooden rail along the creek side. Make it attractive looking, for every stranger coming to town sees it, and do it soon. It is an eye sore to the entire community, and looks as if the council were not attending to their business.

A Word of Advice.

"The Bellefonters" is the name of a club of some of our best young boys, whose ages run from fifteen to seventeen years. Their room is in the western end of Bush Arcade, second floor. We do not wish to curtail your pleasure, boys, but in our judgment you had better keep the club room closed on the Sabbath. Home is the best place for boys of your age, and after the racket you raised last Sunday, are sure your parents would not permit you to congregate there on that day, did they know it. We write this in the spirit of kindness, and because we have your best interests at heart, and it is far better to be under the watchful care of your fathers and mothers than to be desecrating God's holy day. Don't be cross at us, and stop the paper because we have written this, for it will not hinder us from keeping our eyes upon you, and noting anything you do, that we think is wrong. In after years we know, you will thank us for this advice.

Death of Mrs. Haverack.

Mrs. Martha Haverack, widow of William Haverack, late of Millesburg, died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. Reuben Crust, near Fillmore, on Tuesday night, aged 70 years. Mrs. Haverack was a highly respected woman and was a lifelong member of the Methodist church.

The following children survive her: Edward, of Howard; Joseph, of Renovo; T. B. Tipton, of Ridgway, Mrs. Reuben Crust, of Fillmore, and Mrs. John T. Laurie, of Tyrone.

The funeral took place from Mr. Crust's residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock; interment at Meyers' cemetery.

The Release Of No. 201

BY DAVID H. TALMADGE

Copyright, 1901, by D. H. Talmadge

The accommodation train, No. 201 of the schedule, on the branch road was stuck in the snow, and there seemed to be no relief for it. No provision had been made for such a contingency because the branch, sheltered by trees and bluffs, had been considered proof against such misfortune. The engineer, who had been on the run for twenty years, was too astonished for words when the small locomotive failed to cut the drift into which it had plunged so confidently, and he sat on his seat staring dumbly at the conductor, who swore shockingly and gesticulated with his arms.

In the coach were two passengers, both young men. One was the type of commercial salesman sent out by small jobbing houses, well dressed, self assertive, crudely philosophic; the other, by appearance, plainly a farmer. He wore a baggy, shiny black suit, and his white collar was attached to a gingham shirt by a white bone button, sewed with black thread. His appearance was enhanced by a carefully trimmed shock of hair and whiskers.

The commercial salesman had arisen when the train stopped and had walked to the door.

"I guess," he remarked after a minute, "that we're stalled."

He whistled a popular melody as he walked down the aisle and noted with some amusement that the other man was clutching the back of a seat, his eyes filled with consternation.

"Provoking, isn't it?" the drummer said as he lighted a cigar and drew a paper covered book from his grip.

"Y-yes—by—cat!" the other stammered. "Say, do you mean that we're stuck?"

"That's it exactly. Here's the conductor now."

The conductor slammed the door viciously and shook the snow from his cap. "We're up against it, gentlemen," he announced in disgust. "The confounded teakettle is dying like a sick pig out there in a drift no bigger'n a washtub. We're two miles from Dilkport, and the snow's so thick you can't see your hand before your face. Lucky we've been to supper."

"Then we won't get out tonight?" asked the farmer anxiously, looking at his watch.

"That's the size of it. As we're up here on this pea vine the section men won't learn what's the matter with us till tomorrow. We've got plenty of coal. It might be worse."

"Yes," said the farmer, "I s'pose it might, but I don't see how it could be much worse for me."

He picked up an overshoe.

"You see," he explained, fastening the buckle, "I've got a particular engagement tonight up at Dilkport, and if the train ain't going I've got to hoof it."

He put on the other shoe and rose, reaching for the wolfskin coat which dangled from one end of the parcel holder. The conductor and the salesman contemplated him in astonishment.

"But, man, you can't do it possibly," said the conductor. "You'll fall through a bridge or something, and then you'll freeze to death."

"I reckon 'tis a bit risky," admitted the farmer, "but I ain't at all sure it wouldn't be riskier not to. You see, my wife's at Dilkport, and she's sick. She may be dying. I've got to go to her."

An expression of sympathy came upon the conductor's face, and that of the salesman took on a sudden gravity.

"There are certain circumstances," the farmer continued in explanation, "which make it more important that I should see her than you might naturally think from the plain fact of her being sick. I haven't treated her just right, to tell the truth. I've been stupid and unreasonable. We were married only a year ago. I won her away from three or four other fellows. Any one of 'em would have made her a better husband than me. Funny how such things go, ain't it?"

"It's a blooming queer old world," said the conductor, nodding his head sagely.

"And the queerest things in it are girls," added the salesman in the tone of an authority.

"We were married at Dilkport, where she was raised, and we went to my farm to live. We were happy as could be for maybe six months, and then I noticed that something was wrong with her. A sort of cloud come over her. It was nothing but homesickness, I s'pose, but I couldn't see it any other way than that she was sorry she'd married me. And one day I happened to find a sheet of paper—a part of a letter she'd been writing—that had dropped from her portfolio, and I read it. There weren't many words on the sheet. The first one was 'disappointed,' ending a sentence she'd begun on the sheet that went before. And then it said: 'It is not as I had pictured it. I wish to go home'— And right there it ended. I said nothing to her. I didn't think it was necessary to have a scene, as they call it. But I was hurt—hurt clean to the core—and in trying to cover up my feelings I s'pose I was unkind, maybe cruel. After two or three days of brooding I got into a regular bad state. I told her she'd better go home to her folks; that I'd decided we weren't made for each other. When she tried to put her arms about my neck, I wouldn't let her. When she asked for my reasons, I told her she knew well enough and turned my back. I was an unnatural, unreasonable brute."

"Correct," said the conductor frankly.

"Well, she went. For four months I've been baching it on the farm, growing crabbider every day, and this morning I happened to meet a young chap in the store at Pepperdock that knows my wife's folks. He lives at Dilkport when he isn't traveling around the country selling things.

"'I s'pose you've heard from your wife this morning?' he asked me. 'No,' said I, with a snap; 'I hain't.' 'Well, I've just come from home,' said he, 'and there was a report on the street when I left that she was liable to die. The kid's all right, though.'

"'Huh!' said I, startled to death. 'The Kid!' 'Yes,' said he, looking at me in a sort of peculiar way; 'didn't you know there was a kid born yesterday?' 'Why, yes, of course,' I said, shamed into the lie. I was that dazed I didn't know my name for a minute.

"'Your wife's a fine woman,' the young chap went on, me listening like one in a dream. 'I sent her a patent dish washer about six months ago on trial. It didn't suit her, but she didn't do as most women would have done. She wrote me a real nice letter, telling me that it had disappointed her; that it wasn't what she'd pictured it. She said she wished to go home to Dilkport for a visit in a short time and that when she come she'd bring it up with her, saving me the express charges. I tell you, a fellow in this agency business learns to appreciate little things like that.'

"And then in a flash I saw it all. The letter I'd seen was the one she was writing about that dish washer. I bolted home without getting the things I'd come to town after. I hustled around and spruced up a little and got somebody to care for the stock, and—and I'm going to get to Dilkport tonight in spite of blazes; that's all there is to it."

He left the coach, followed by the conductor and the salesman, who felt impelled by sympathy to see him off on his perilous trip. They climbed over the freight cars through the blinding storm toward the locomotive.

"Look out for the next car!" called the conductor. "It's loaded with oil barrels. Better let me go ahead with the lantern."

The farmer stopped. "All right," he said. "Is there any oil in the barrels?"

"They're full of it. Why?"

"I was just thinking that once I bought a barrel of oil, and on the way home the sled tipped over in a drift, and the bung came out of the barrel, and the oil run on to the snow. It was a pitch dark night, and I didn't have a lantern. I was in bad shape, but I gathered together a pile of straw that had been in the sled box and lit it with a match, and the first thing I knew that oil soaked drift was melting."

"By the holy green light!" exclaimed the conductor as the other's idea became clear to him. "Do you suppose we could do it?"

"I'd be willing to stand the expense of three barrels of oil toward trying it."

The conductor jumped into the cab and laid the plan before the engineer, who had stubbornly refused to leave the engine until compelled by the cold.

"It might work," said the engineer after a few minutes' deliberation. "'Tain't like as if we were buried. We're just tangled up a little; that's all. If I could get a start, I'd go through. Jim"—addressing the fireman with sudden energy—"coal up! Make her hum!"

The conductor called the two brakemen and the express messenger, and with the assistance of the two passengers three barrels of kerosene were rolled from the car and carried to the front end of the train. The heads of the barrels were broken in, and the oil was scattered upon the snow by pailful and shovelful. Then, when no more remained, the conductor lighted a great handful of greasy waste and threw it upon the drift. It sputtered a moment, flickered, all but went out. The farmer rolled one of the empty oil soaked barrels within reach of the burning waste.

"It's no g"—

There was a blinding glare, followed by a sizzling, hissing roar. The drift melted as if by magic. The flames licked the drive wheels of the locomotive and reached almost to the cab.

"Coal her! Coal her!" shouted the engineer to the fireman.

The conductor jumped up and down excitedly, waving his lantern. "All-l-l aboar-r-rd!" he yelled.

Half an hour later the train pulled into Dilkport.

The conductor received a note the next day. It read: "Everything's all right. She's been getting better from the minute I got here. I wanted to go down to the station to see you, but I can't seem to tear myself away from her and the baby. Send me bill for the oil."

To which the conductor replied: "Glad to hear you're O. K. We all of us want to shake hands with you. The company pays for the oil."

Taken by Surprise.

There are some hospitable creatures who are greatly disturbed if they cannot meet every demand made on them, although there are cases when it is ridiculous to expect them to be able to be equal to the occasion. Recently a barn took fire on a large estate, and the firemen of the village worked hard to put out the flames. After it was all over the husband asked the fire fighters into the house to partake of coffee and whatever edibles were on hand. His wife welcomed the men with steaming cups of coffee, doughnuts and pies; then she said apologetically, "Oh, if I had only known this was going to happen I would have had a lot of things baked up."

COFFEE ADULTERANTS.

The List Runs Through the Alphabet From A to W.

If all of the substances that pass through a coffee grinding machine during the year should be written in alphabetical order, "a" would begin the list with acorns, and "w" would end it with wormwood, sprouts of which are sometimes used to give the debased coffee a slight aromatic bitter taste.

Adulteration occurs largely in the coffee that is sold in the ground form. Several coffee berry factories have been discovered in Europe which were doing a large and profitable business by molding an admixture of tanbark, stove rust, clay, sawdust, chicory, coffee sediment and coffee meal into a neat berry by the aid of some agglutinant, and these berries were so well made that the deception was not discovered for a long time. This production had a large sale among the lower classes of Russia and Poland, and, mixed with the genuine coffee berry, its sale was quite lively in other parts of Europe.

Unroasted coffee berries are often made from oat and rye flour and cornmeal. The natural aroma of these grains is destroyed by some process, and after the proper amount of coffee aroma is added the berries are formed and caused to maintain their shape by some adhesive substance. The test usually employed to discover this deception is to place the beans in a receptacle containing warm water, which will dissolve them in a few hours.—Honolulu Star.

Period of Growth.

Children born between September and February are, some authorities state, not so tall as those born in the summer and spring months, and the growth of children is much more rapid from March till August. The extremities grow rapidly up to the sixteenth year, then there is a slow growth till the thirtieth year. The legs chiefly grow between the tenth and seventeenth year.

Comparing the general results, it appears that there are six periods of growth. The first extends up to the sixth or eighth year and is one of very rapid growth; the second period, from eleven to fourteen years, growth is slow; the third period, from sixteen to seventeen; the fourth period shows a slow growth up to the age of thirty for height, up to fifty for chest girth; the fifth period is one of rest, from thirty to fifty years; the sixth period is characterized by a decrease in all dimensions of the body.

His Special Grace.

"Yes," said a teacher in a south side school the other day while endeavoring to explain to her class how the same word may have different meanings, "there is more than one kind of grace. Grace may be a girl's name, and grace means beauty, too; so that when we say a lady or anything else is full of grace we mean that she or it is beautiful in form and in character. Now, there is another kind of grace. I wonder who can explain what it is, Freddie, what does your father say when he sits down to breakfast in the mornings?"

"'Oh, gosh, ma, I wish things wasn't always put on the table so sloppy that they spoil a fellow's appetite.'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Banana Juice For Bronchitis.

The juice of bananas is recommended as one of the best remedies in chronic bronchitis with insufficient expectoration and marked dyspnœa. A dram eight or ten times a day during the first days is usually prescribed, and later the dose can be diminished.

The sirip is prepared as follows: Cut the fruit in slices and place them in a jar; sprinkle with sugar and cover the jar, which is then enveloped in straw and placed in cold water, and the latter is heated to the boiling point. The jar is then removed, allowed to cool, and the juice is poured into little bottles.

Imitating the Music of a Cascade.

Certain tribes on the Amazon have been fascinated by the music of the waterfall. Musical instruments were found in use among them consisting of a complicated mechanism by which water was poured from one bowl into another, in imitation of the cascade, and then returned by the receiving bowl into the vessel which had poured it, so that by a repetition of this mechanism a constant murmur of a cascade could be kept up so long as the audience desired or the player was able to perform it.

London's Postal Service.

So complete are the postal arrangements of London that there is not a house more than 200 yards from a letter box or 400 from a postoffice and money order office. There are over 10,000 pillar boxes (we call them letter boxes), which are cleared every hour from 10 in the morning till 5 in the evening, and there are twelve deliveries a day in the city.

A Tidbit.

A lady who had a pet magpie used to allow it to take bits of food from between her lips. One day it perched on her shoulder, as usual, but instead of taking the tidbit she offered him he poked a nice, fat, green caterpillar between her lips.

Cautious.

"Have you got any corned beef?" asked the guest.

"All I know about it," said the conscientious waiter, "is that it looks like beef and it's corned. Wish some?"—Chicago Tribune.

CHINESE TYPESETTING.

The Celestial Compositor Has to Master 11,000 Characters.

Typesetting for a Chinese paper is a vastly different matter from typesetting for a journal in another language, for there are 11,000 characters in use. When one recalls the statement of Chinese sinologues that the sayings of Confucius require 7,000 characters, this seems to be a moderate estimate. The Chinese language is derived from 214 root words, which expand into the 4,000 or 5,000 words of daily use and the thirty odd thousand of the dictionary.

It requires 11,000 spaces to hold a font of Chinese type. The large cases, or false partitions, are ranged about the room and divided into spaces for each individual type, each a word complete in itself. A Chinese printer, it is estimated, can arrange 4,000 characters a day. The work has been carefully systematized, and the characters are arranged according to their formation. A simple character designates its group, and the elaboration of form is the elaboration of its meaning, as our terminatives and prefixes elaborate the root.

A division is devoted to the simple character that stands for "wood" and all of its amplifications. In this space or column are to be found "box," "bed," "plum tree" and so on through a long list of objects pertaining to or made of wood. Should an unusual word be needed, type is cut and delicately patched to make the required character. Comparing our combinations of twenty-six letters and ten figures, besides common symbols, an idea of the labor of a Chinese compositor can be formed.—Out West.

He Knew the Lady.

"Yes," said the eminent professor at a social gathering, addressing his remarks to a small man to whom he had been introduced, "I flatter myself that I rarely fail to read a face correctly."

"So?" queried the small man.

"Yes. Now, there is a lady," continued the professor, pointing to a two hundred pound specimen of the fair sex, "the lines of whose countenance are as clear as print to me. The chin shows firmness of disposition, amounting to obstinacy; the pointed nose, a vicious temperament; the capacious mouth, volubility; the square chin denotes trouble for those who oppose her wishes; the eyes show a hardness of heart"—

"Wonderful, truly wonderful, professor!" interrupted the small man.

"You evidently know something of the lady, then?" said the professor.

"Sure!" replied the small man. "She is my wife."—Chicago News.

Wouldn't Commit Himself.

There is in a town in the north of England a certain preacher of Hibernian antecedents who considers himself to be a speaker of perfect English, but who is generally credited with the possession of as rich a brogue as can be found anywhere in Tipperary.

Some mention was made of his peculiar pronunciation at a church meeting, which greatly angered him. He immediately called upon one of the members and, after complaining of the injustice done him, asked him whether in his opinion a single trace of the brogue was to be observed in his speech.

"Well," his friend answered, "if you wish to deny it I should advise you to do so in writing."—London Answers.

The Polonzelo Arrow.

"An arrow studded with the most costly of stones, tipped at both ends with pure virgin gold and headed with the feathers of the rarest birds." Such is the description given of the "Polonzelo arrow," which in 1434 was presented to Sir John Dalcourt by a Spanish gentleman. This wonderful arrow was made in 1204 by an ancestor of the Spaniard's, and every stone and jewel with which it was set was said to represent a human life cut short through its instrumentality. The stones indicated the number of men to whom it had carried death, while the curiously fashioned gold and silver jewels represented the women who had fallen under its poisoned point.

How to Sharpen a Carving Knife.

A carving knife needs to have a different kind of an edge from a razor. The steel which ordinarily accompanies a carving knife and fork is very well to give a finishing touch to the edge, but an ordinary whetstone, such as a reaper uses for his scythe or sickle, is the most useful implement a carver can keep at hand. One or two rubs on each side of a knife whet it up mightily, and then two or three finishing touches from the steel and the knife is in order to do most excellent execution.

The White Shark.

The most dreaded and ferocious shark now in existence is the great white shark of tropical waters. It is the man eater par excellence. Specimens have been captured which measured forty-two feet in length. Whether it has done so or not, this frightful creature would certainly have no difficulty in literally swallowing a man whole.

GLADSTONE'S ORATORY.

One Critic Likens It to the Rushing of Waters In a Tempest.

Gladstone was a great financier and perhaps the very greatest expositor of finance who ever lived. He had a magical influence over masses of men and a power of words the effect of which was more like that of huge masses of water in a tempest than anything else. His Midlothian speeches made one think less of a river coming down than of the sea coming up. His skill in constructing a difficult measure was not even approached by any man of his time and perhaps was never exceeded by any man at any time.

These and many other merits we must freely allow him, but when the final estimate of him is made many traits must be introduced and not least his extraordinary power of believing precisely what he wished to believe. He had a tender conscience, but, save only where finance was concerned, he had that conscience thoroughly under command. If it showed the slightest recalcitrancy, his will was always ready to say, "Just you dare!"

And yet when all has been said for and against him there can be no doubt that he will remain the most notable Englishman of his generation—as much out of place among the Liberals as Disraeli was among the Conservatives, but, like him, a head and shoulders above all his rivals and as much superior to Disraeli himself in most of the higher arts of statesmanship as that immensely clever child of Israel was superior to him in all its secondary arts.

The Seven Golden Cities.

The "Seven Golden Cities," one of the most popular legends of the latter part of the dark ages, were said to be situated on an island west of the African coast. The island is represented as abounding in gold, with magnificent houses and temples, "the high towers of which shone at a great distance." The legend also relates that at the time of the conquest of Spain and Portugal by the Moors, when the inhabitants fled in every direction to escape slavery, seven bishops, followed by a great number of people, took to ships and put boldly out on the high seas. After tossing about for some time they landed on an unknown island, the famous spot which in after years became the seat of the "Seven Golden Cities."

"This island," Heylyn says, "was exactly in midocean." After all had landed safely the wise old bishops burned the ships to prevent their followers from deserting and founded the cities which have become so famous in song and story. This mysterious island was often sought by the early navigators. Those who went in search of it and never returned were popularly believed to have been detained by its inhabitants.

Objected to "Stuff."

The pride of James Gordon Bennett, the elder, in the great newspaper he had built up was proverbial, and he had a particular aversion to anything that savored of disrespect on the part of his employees when speaking of its contents.

One of his editorial writers ventured to compliment him one morning on the general character of that day's issue.

"There was a lot of good stuff in the paper this morning, Mr. Bennett," he said.

"Stuff?" exclaimed the editor. "Stuff? What do you mean?"

"I mean the—the matter on the editorial page," replied the other, somewhat taken aback.

"Then say so," rejoined his chief, with a frosty gleam in his eye. "If you value your job, young man, never call anything that goes into the New York Herald 'stuff' again as long as you live!"

Getting In Line.

"The station at Savannah," said a traveler through the south, "is surrounded in all directions with a lot of saloons and cheap restaurants. In great illuminated letters over one of these saloons was the sign:

"'Open All Night.'

"Next to it was a restaurant bearing with equal prominence the legend, 'We Never Close.'

"Third in order was a Chinese laundry in a little tumbledown hovel, and upon the front of this building was the sign in great, scrawling letters, 'Me Wakee Too.'"—New York Tribune.

Sounded Like It.

"Miss Flyppe," said the hostess, "permit me to present Mr. Hogg, author of those clever lines on 'An Arctic Courtship' which appeared in The Gulf Stream Magazine last month."

"I am glad to meet you, Mr. Hogg," said the young woman. "Pardon the question, but is that your real name?"

"Certainly," he replied, bristling up. "Did you think it was my pen name?"—Chicago Tribune.

A Lively Scrimmage.

Mr. Joshua Folk, the irrepressible Josh, met with an accident Friday which might have resulted fatally. He has been working for the last month for Charles McCafferty at the new Potter-Hoy warehouse, but for some reason (?) he did not report for duty Friday morning. Some time during the day he met Mr. McCafferty and they had some pleasant (?) words between them. Josh, who is a very loquacious individual under all circumstances, was particularly so at that time, and we all know that Mr. McCafferty is not deaf and dumb. The altercation continued for some little time when from some unaccountable reason his throat become fastened between the digits of Mr. McCafferty's right hand, and Charley, thinking it was a check on the First National bank, contracted them to such a degree as to make it very disagreeable for Josh, and if it had not been that some kind friend told him what he was holding onto dreadful results might have ensued, in fact too sad to contemplate. We hope nothing serious will follow and that Mr. Folk's neck is none the worse of the encounter.

A New Fake.

To evade the oleomargarine law, which goes into effect July 1st, dealers in some parts of the State are preparing to place upon the local markets a compound for the use of consumers by which the unappetizing white substitute can be colored to resemble butter. Instead of the manufacturer coloring the oleo, the doctoring will be done by the housewife. With each purchase of uncolored butterine sold the purchaser will receive a capsule the size of a large raisin. Each capsule contains a few drops of fluid which when worked into the butterine will change its color from a lard-like white to a rich yellow. Under the law, hotels and restaurants that serve butterine will not be permitted to color it.

I cheerfully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. ASSASSINATED BY A NEGRO

Speaking on the Government Bill Has Begun in The House.

THEIR BODIES RECOVERED.

Meeting Little Success—Opposition to Sale of the Danish Islands Is Decidedly Weak.

PHILIPPINES NOT A PARTY QUESTION

COPENHAGEN, June 20.—The opponents of the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States are again active, but privately they admit that they are meeting with little success. The response to the appeal for funds to aid in the movement in opposition to the sale was decidedly weak. The meetings are held secretly, but, beyond a few politicians, they have mostly been attended by business men interested in the proposed steamship lines to the island of St. Thomas.

The government discountenances the anti-sale agitation. The Danish West Indies treaty will be a prominent issue of the campaign preceding the elections to the landsthing. The premier—Dr. Deuntzer—starts on a speech-making tour next week.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 20.—James Cross, son of Captain J. C. Cross, of this city, was assassinated Wednesday night at their plantation near Pendleton, Deshea county, by a negro named Martin Nash. The killing is said to be the result of an old feud between the Cross family and another prominent family of the neighborhood.

ROANOKE, Va., June 20.—The bodies of Henry Harston and Peter Harston, two miners, reached here from Williamston, W. Va., where they were killed by an explosion of dynamite in a mine Wednesday evening. A miner who accompanied the remains said that about twenty-five miners were at work in a mine near Williamston, when a crowd entered with rifles, demanding that they should come out. On the miners' refusal to obey the commands the strikers threw a quantity of dynamite into the shaft, which exploded, killing five of the men.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The opening day of the week's debate on the Philippine government bill in the house was signalized by a remarkably strong and exhaustive speech by Mr. Cooper, of Wisconsin, chairman of the committee on insular affairs. He spoke for almost three hours and was given close attention by both sides of the house. Much of the speech was a general defense of the policy pursued by the administration and drew repeated applause from his side of the house. He contended that the problem of the Philippines should not be a party question, that both political parties brought on the war with Spain and the votes of members of both parties ratified the treaty which made the islands American territory. The most telling portion of his speech was the parallel he drew between the present attiude of the opposition and the attitude of the opposition during and immediatety succeeding the preceding year.

Jones, of Virginia, the Rankin member of the minority of the committee, made an able presentation of the democratic position, but he yielded the floor after speaking about an hour and resumed this morning. These were the only speeches made Thursday.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the information can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Our Pension System.

The amount estimated as necessary for the payment of our pensions for the coming fiscal year is $38,500,000. As compared with the appropriation for the present year this sum shows an estimated decrease of $5,500,000. Compared with the pension expenditures of other governments. There are few countries in which the regulations under which applications may be filed are as favorable as they are in this country. Great Britain refuses to entertain any application from an officer for a pension for a wound unless he applies within five years after receiving the wound. In Japan the maximum time is three years, and in Switzerland one year from the time the disability was incurred. Switzerland, furthermore, pensions for one year only, the application being "reconsidered" at the end of each year.

Very different from these requirements are those of the pension laws of the United States, with no limitation as to the time of application, no term pensions, and no annual examinations. A civil war soldier is fully at liberty to seek a pension today for wounds or disability incurred in 1862, and if he can trace the origin of a disability to his army service the pension is granted, although for forty years he has failed to make any claim on the government for assistance. It may be that the applicant is occupying a remunerative Federal position; if so, that fact will not be considered in adjudicating the claim or in paying the pension. In Japan, however, a pension is suspended during the time of government employment. In this country the pension roll has included members of the cabinet and of congress.

In case the pensioner desires to leave his country, either permanently or for a term of years, how is such a departure looked upon by the various governments? Under the law of Servia such a pensioner ceases to receive aid from the government. The Argentine Republic pays him for two months only. In Peru the right to a pension is forfeited if the beneficary remains abroad two years. France, Austria and Greece permit residence abroad by express consent of the government only. England requires pensioners to obtain leave to go outside the country, and provides for a reduction of the pension after three years' absence, with its entire forfeiture if the pensioner is under fifty years of age, between the ages of fifty and eighty the pension may be commuted. With the exception of a law that was in operation from 1893 to 1895 the United States has made no distinction between pensioner resident abroad and those resident in the United States. Last year this government paid $641,161,65 to 4,547 pensioners residing in foreign countries.—The Forum.

His Wife too Many.

A printer on one of the morning newspapers spent a recent night-off in a small game of poker, and finished a winner by $15. When he cashed in, he received his money in cartwheels. He knew his wife was not averse to searching his pockets when he slept late o' mornings, and fearing the jingle of the silver pieces would lead her into temptation, he slipped a dollar under the carpeting of each step as he climbed the stairs to his bed room. When he arose for breakfast and dressed, he remembered his precaution on homecoming and quietly chuckled as he prepared to make a profitable decent to breakfast. As he stepped on the landing in front of his bedroom door, his shoes rang out on bare boards, and glancing down he saw the stairs stripped of carpet. His wife had begun her spring housecleaning.—DuBois Express.

PUNISHMENT.

Social progress has done away with a great many forms of punishment once administered under the laws of enlightened people. But nature never changes or modifies her penalties. She still has the same punishment for the man who neglects or abuses his stomach as she had in the far off days "when Adam delved and Eve span."

The physical discomfort, dullness, sluggishness, irritability, nervousness and sleeplessness which are visited upon the man who eats carelessly or irregularly have been from the beginning the evidences of disease of the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures the diseased stomach and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, so that the sluggishness, irritability, nervousness and sleeplessness which result from innutrition are cured also.

"I was taken sick nine years ago with fever," writes Mr. M. M. Wardwell, of Linwood, Leavenworth Co., Kansas. "Had the doctor and he broke up the fever all right, but I took diarrhoea right away; he couldn't cure it and it became chronic, and then he gave up the case. I got so weak with it and had piles so badly I couldn't lie down, nor hardly sit up. Was that way two or three months; thought I would never be well again,' but picked up one of Dr. Pierce's Memorandum Books one day and saw your description of catarrh of the stomach. I thought it hit my case. We had a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the house that was got for mother. You recommend it for catarrh of the stomach, so I went to taking it. The one bottle nearly cured me. I got two bottles next time and took one and one-half and was well. I haven't been bothered with diarrhoea since."

Mamma Will Pay the Bill.

An exchange publishes the following item which was written by an observer:

"I was standing up in a hardware store on Main street the other day when a little girl probably four years of age, came into the store. Evidently the child was in trouble, for the hind wheels were off the little red cart she was dragging behind her, and the little girl walked up to one of the clerks (it don't make any difference which one) and asked that the wagon be repaired. The obliging clerk took a bolt from a box and fastened the wheels on the wagon and when the little girl was ready to go she ask how much her bill was "The bill, I think, can be paid with a kiss," said the hardware clerk as he puckered up and got ready to collect his dues. "All right," said the child, "mamma will pay you when she comes down this evening," and with that the child proceeded with its wagon. The mamma had evidently instructed the child what to say regarding the pay, but had not expected any such rash demands in settlement."

On last Saturday evening he happened to be near the barn of T. C. Smith when the heavy storm came up and sought shelter there and was within 12 feet of the horses when they were killed. He has taken more chances than some of our boys in the Philippines.

Citizens about Zion and throughout Nittany valley have in view a gathering to be known as a Nittany Valley Reunion, in Gentzle's Grove, west of Zion This is an idea of the older citizens for the purpose of having as many former residents of Nittany Valley, living in other parts of the county, come and join them on that day in a basket picnic. Such a gathering should prove interesting to all, and be an opportunity for former friends to meet and chat over days gone by.

The Zion band boys will be present to furnish music.

Went Back to Tobacco in Interest of Economy.

A man who chewed twenty cents worth of tobacco a week, says an exchange, concluded to try a tobacco cure. In two weeks he ate $1.50 worth of the cure and for the next two weeks he used ten cents worth of candy, five cents worth of peanuts and five cents worth of cough drops per day. During these two weeks he also consumed two large rubber erasers, ate the rubber tips from fourteen lead pencils, chewed up a dozen penholders and browsed off his mustache as high as he could reach. He is now chewing tobacco in the interest of economy.

Bring Suits for Big Damages--Luzerne May Have Double Hanging.

DIED FROM EFFECTS OF BLOWS.

Captain Clark's Nomination Confirmed—Suits of International Interest.

RUN DOWN AND KILLED

PITTSBURG, June 19.—Six suits of international interest was entered Wednesday in the United States circuit court by Attorney Harry Alvan Hall, acting at the request of the Austro-Hungarian consul and in behalf of the heirs of six men killed by an explosion at the Eliza furnace of Jones & Laughlins, Limited, last year. The suits are to recover damages for loss sustained by the deaths in question and involve $120,000. The explosion occurred December 19, 1901, and eleven men were killed and many injured. All mill owners and employers of foreigners are interested in the results of these suits, as it is stated that they are merely test cases and that numerous other suits will be brought in by other residents in European countries who have lost relatives in this manner.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 19—John Drayer, aged 30 years, formerly of Middletown, Dauphin county, Pa., died here Wednesday. A few hours later Edward Buchott, a well-known young man of this city, was arrested on the charge of murder and is in jail pending the action of the coroner's jury.

On June 7 Drayer was on the street with a young woman, another couple accompanying them, and was set upon and beaten until unconscious. He had lingered between life and death ever since. The assault was apparently causeless or the result of jealousy. Buchott admits that he struck the fatal blows. It is expected that others will be implicated in the result of the investigation now in progress.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The senate had an executive session soon after meeting yesterday and Senator Hale reported favorably the nomination of Captain Charles F. Clark to be advanced seven numbers and made a rear admiral. He asked to have the nomination confirmed, but Senator Warren objected and the nomination went over.

Subsequently Senator Warren withdrew his objection, moved an executive session and Captain Clark was confirmed.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19 —Mrs. Carrie M. Cooper, of this city, was run down and killed on York road, near Willow Grove Wednesday by an automobile occupied by J. H. Fisher and William O. Bixler, of Easton, Pa. Mrs. Cooper's skull was fractured and she died in fifteen minutes of concussion of the brain.

The automobile had been purchased in this city and Messrs Fisher and Bixler were taking it to Easton. In rounding a curve the machine came upon Mrs. Cooper and several companions. The sudden appearance of the automobile confused Mrs. Cooper, who is said to have run into the machine instead of away from it. Fisher and Bixler were allowed to proceed to Easton on their promise to appear at the coroner's inquest to-day.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 19.—Luzerne county will in all probability have a double hanging in the near future. Late Wednesday afternoon the jury in the case of Peter Lenousky, charged will murder, returned a verdict in the first degree. Victor Zorambo, Lenousky's accomplice in the crime, was convicted of murder in the first degree some weeks ago.

The two men entered into a conspiracy to kill a fellow countryman, named Anthony Sennick, who was employed in a coal mine at Exeter. Sennick was believed to carry a large amount of money on his person and to secure the money murder was resorted to. The victim was struck down in his chamber with an ax and his head and body terribly mangled. He died the next day in an hospital.

The Methodist Picnic.

The Methodist Sabbath School of this place held their annual picnic Friday at Hecla Park. There is a large attendance filling several of the Central R. R. coaches. The Coleville Band accompanied them and gave an afternoon concert which added greatly to the pleasure of the day. Our Methodist friends are to be commended for taking the lead this year and we hope all the other denominations will follow. Don't think it is too much trouble, just remember back a few years what a pleasure it was to be taken out into the woods and allowed to run free, and to have all the cake, pies and cold chicken you could eat. The children of today, are exactly like you were, and enjoy such an occasion to the same extent you did.

Miss. Bradley's Musicale.

Miss Mary Bradley and her class assisted by Miss Louisa Callaway, Miss Mabel Fauble, Mr. Edward Fleming and Mr. Sam Hart, gave a delightful musicale in the Undine Hose House Thursday night before an audience of about one hundred and fifty invited guests. The principal object of the entertainment was to give her pupils an opportunity of showing how they had advanced in the art, under her instructions, and she certainly should be gratified at the manner in which they all acquitted themselves. Although they are, with one or two exceptions, quite young they demonstrated the fact, that it will not be long until they are finished musicians. Her pupils taking part were Misses Edna Meyer, Ella Gates, Louise Brachbill, Grace Whitmer, Harriet Ray, Nellie Conley, Ione Donachy, Roxie Mingle and Master Harrison Whippo. Miss Louisa Callaway's solo intitled "May-Day" was so enthusiastically received that she was compelled to respond to the encore. Miss Bradley, as usual, sized up to the occasion in her vocal solos and duet. Her accompaniments were played by Miss Fauble. Ed. Fleming and Sam Hart are a team hard to beat, both have fine voices, and know how to handle them. It speaks well for Bellefonte, when without going abroad, such an entertainment can be presented to its citizens, and Miss Bradley can have the satisfaction of knowing that she afforded an evening of pleasure to all those who were so fortunate as to be there.

Virulent Cancer Cured

Startling proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W Roberts, of Elizabeth, W. Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions ulcers and sores vanish. Funeral of Mr. J. H. Holt.

The funeral services held at the Holt home at Snow Shoe on Thursday, over the remains of John Harbison Holt, were very impressive. Rev. Walter F. Carson, of Milesburg, pastor of the Snow Shoe Presbyterian church, had charge of the services. Fifteen Masons from Bellefonte attended the funeral.

The pall bearers were John P. Harris, J. S. McCarger, W. B. Rankin, Prof. John Meyer, Wm. T. Speer and John I. Olewine. Interment was made in Askey cemetery, Moshannon.

—As we were walking in front of Crider's Exchange Friday morning, we heard a commotion behind us, and on turning around to see the cause, we saw our genial friend, R. A. Beck, proprietor of the crystal hair cutting and shaving saloon, rushing towards us, waiving his hands as thought he was going to annihilate us on the spot. With considerable trepidation we asked him the cause of his pugilistic demonstration, when our fears were allayed by him saying, that our carrier had neglected to leave the NEWS at his shop Thursday and that he would just as soon undertake to do business without it, as without soap and razor. We told him it would not occur again, so we both went away satisfied

Help wanted.

Mr. John Porter Lyon and his wife, accompanied by Miss Deborah Lyon were arrivals on the late train Wednesday night and are visiting at the home of Mr. Isaac Mitchell.

Mr. Lyon is a practical and extensive farmer at Pennsylvania Furnace. Mrs. Lyon (she who was Nellie Mitchell) is an accomplished woman and makes an excellent farmers wife, her home and grounds show evidence of culture and taste, and her butter and little onions have a strong reputation in Tyrone which is their market town.

Mr. Lyon is here engaging hands to assist him during harvest. We assure him he will have no difficulty in securing them there are plenty of chaps in town who are doing nothing and just waiting for something to turn up, for instance Harry Keller is big and strong enough to drive the mower and binder, Henry Quigley and John Knisely might size up to the situation, and Robert Hunter being an old farmer could be put any place, and if he needs a little fellow for water boy he might get Frank Rhoads. So you see John, help is plenty.

Death of an Aged Citizen of Boggs Township.

Mr. William Kline, a highly respected citizen of Boggs township, died at the home of son-in-law, Mr. Edward Irvin, at McCoy's works, on Thursday morning. Mr. Kline was aged about seventy years and for forty years had been employed by the firm of McCoy & Linn. He was an honest and industrious man and was esteemed by all who knew him. His wife and several grown children survive him.

The funeral services were held in the Methodist church, Milesburg, Sunday afternoon, at one o'clock. The interment was made in the Advent church cemetery.

Met With a Serious Accident.

Mr. J. J. Lingle whose home is at Spring Mills met with quite a serious accident on Saturday, while at his work as a fireman on the N. Y. C. Railroad near Patton. The engine he was on ran into another train and the result was, his left ear was nearly cut off and the top of his head badly cut and mangled. Mr. Lingle passed through Bellefonte today on his way home.

One hundred thousand pairs have already been shipped to the government arsenal at Philadelphia, where, after a thorough inspection, not a single pair was rejected.

REMEMBER THE IDES OF 1892.

For forty years the Free-Trade question has been the main hope of the Democracy. The great campaign of 1892 was won on the Tariff or Free-Trade issue, under conditions much resembling those of the present time. It will be recalled that the country was in a condition of prosperity in 1892 that up to that time had not been equaled The country is in a greater condition of prosperity at the present time. Some people are seemingly anxious to make some sort of Tariff revolution. As in 1892 all are doing well, but there are jealousies arising between various interests, each seemingly willing to take its chances of self-destruction by attempting to destroy somebody else.

In Iowa, men are anchoring themselves on present prosperity to demand a change in the schedule that have bought this prosperity. The proposition is made in the interest of Tariff reform, as it was made in 1892, for the purpose of "hitting the monopolies." In 1892 the blow was aimed at Carnegie. In 1902, it is aimed at Pierpoint Morgan. It did not hit Carnegie in 1892, but hit nearly everybody else. It may not hit Morgan in 1902, but it may hit nearly every one else. Some of the men in Iowa who have made hundreds of thousands of dollars in increased values of real estate are the chief agitators for the present disturbance of the Tariff. They think everything is so securely established that Congress could go pell mell into the Tariff question without hurting anything or anybody. There is danger to the country and to the Republican party in this agitation which, seemingly, has its home in Iowa. Republicans are every day heard raving against the Tariff, just as they did in 1892, when people scarcely had time to add up their profits.

It is a cute piece of politics that the Democrats or mugwumps are playing in Iowa, rock-ribbed Republican State as she is. If a "Tariff reform" plank can be put into the Republican platform of Iowa it will be a great victory for mugwumpism. Iowa has the speakers of the house, the leaders of the Senate and two members of the Cabinet. A voice from Iowa would sound like the voice of authority coming directly from the administration. The Republicans of Iowa might well stop and think, and also analyze the source from which emanates the attempt to put a Tariff reform plank into the Iowa Republican platform, a plank that might be measurably right in itself, but one that would be constructed as a letting down of old time principles and be regarded away from home as giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Remember the ides of '92.

College Men on Farm.

In the past there has been very little in common between the college education and the farm. In fact, it may be said that to give a boy a college education was to absolutely divorce him from all interest in farm life and farm work. So for years the colleges have been busy turning out doctors, lawyers, parsons, teachers, and the like until the ranks of these professions are full to overflowing. Thousands of young men are each year finding out that it is far easier to acquire a collegiate equipment for these professions than it is to find a place in this old world where they may use their knowledge in a practical way. We wish to say that there is absolutely nothing inharmonious between knowledge and agriculture. On the contrary, no business or profession today offers more inducements to the highly educated young man than this of agriculture. Science is doing fully as much for the farm as it is for the factory, mine or laboratory. The financial rewards which follow science and intelligence, as applied to agriculture, are as substantial as those in any other line. A young man who had just finished a full classical course at one of our best colleges, and who had been casting about for the choice of a profession, said, after looking the field over thoroughly he had made up his mind to supplement his classical course with an agricultural course of study, and then operate a 300-acre stock farm upon modern principles. Infinitely wiser in this course than wearing the best years of his life away to get a standing and a remunerative practice as some lawyers or physician. He said: "I am going to learn how to raise good stock that will sell for a big price." Will he succeed? Of course he will, and there are hundreds of young men who would do well to follow his example.

Growing Pine.

Acting under instructions from the state forestry commission, State Forester George H. Wirt has established a nursery at Mont Alto, Franklin county, on which there are growing 15,000 young white pine trees, and seed has been sown for 300,000 more. An ideal spot of land has been selected for a nursery. Water will be piped so as to reach all points of the nursery when necessary. Arrangements are being made now to plant half a million young trees next spring, and 50,000 tulip poplars. There is also a spontaneous growth of white pine on the tract, about twenty years old, which will afford a splendid opportunity for the exercise of the forester's art. It will show what can be done by pruning and selective cutting.

The opening of this nursery on the the Mont Alto reservation has its uses, also, as an object lesson, and has awakened the greatest interest on the part of the citizens of the neighborhood, who have lent a ready assistance to the operator when it was in their power to do so. It looks like a revival of the oldtime industry which prevailed when Mont Alto was a thriving furnace seat.

Bagging Grapes.

This pays for home use when you want the best you can get. Bagged bunches are much finer, ripen more evenly, have more bloom and are better in every way, but are possibly a few days later in ripening. Thin-skinned varieties, especially, like Concord are very much improved. I buy two-pound manila bags, such as grocers use. These bags last two years and cost only a few cents a hundred. A paper of pins are also required. I slip the bag over the bunch, make a double fold at the top and stick a pin through and there you are until the bunches are ripe. The grapes should be bagged when they are about the size of small shot, but later will do, although the larger they are the more trouble they are to bag.—Alfred J. Edge, Hartford County, Maryland.—Exchange.

To Enlighten Voters.

Secretary of the Commonwealth Griest is preparing to advertise for the information of the voter at the coming election two proposed amendments to the State constitution.

One amends section 10 of article 24 and provides that a discharge of a jury for failure to agree or other necessary causes shall not work acquittal.

The other amends section 7 article 3 by requiring that special or local laws being introduced into the Legislature must first be submitted to a popular vote in the locality interested and adopted by a majority of the voters.

If they are adopted at the next election they must again pass the Legislature and again be submitted to the people at the election in November, 1903.

—The Harrisburg Telegraph Saturday issued a 36 page paper singing the praises of greater Harrisburg. It is a great paper, a capital number and if Harrisburg does not take it place in the front rank of the progressive, wide-awake cities of the state it will be no fault of the Telegraph.

—Our railroad friend, Mr. Frank Warfield, met with quite a serious accident at Mill Hall on Monday. In stepping from a car his foot turned under him, spraining his ankle severely. He was conveyed to his home on Linn Street where he is confined to bed, and suffers a great deal of pain from the injury.

—The financial loss caused by the forest fires in Colorado is estimated at $700,000.

FORMER TOWN SOLOIST SANG.

Mrs. Ambrose Schmidt Pleased Zion's Reformed Congregation.

Mrs. Ambrose Schmidt, of Bellefonte, Pa., formerly Miss Alda Stouffer and a popular vocalist during her residence in Chambersburg, sang in Zion's Reformed church on Sunday morning and evening. At the morning service her well-rounded contralto voice was heard to excellent advantage in the duet arrangement of Ambrose's "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and in the evening she sang the contralto solo in Cureliman's "Protect Us Through the Coming Night."

The above is from the Chambersburg Public Opinion and is a well merited compliment paid Mrs. Schmidt, who is the wife of Rev. Schmidt, pastor of the Reformed church.

Lord Pauncefote's Body.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The remains of the late Lord Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, which are now in the vault at Rock Creek cemetery, will on July 1 be taken to Scott's Station, on the Metropolitan branch of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and accompanied by the staff of the British Embassy. A special train will leave the station at 3 o'clock for Annapolis, where the funeral party will be received with all military and naval ceremony by the cadets and marines at the Naval Academy and a detachment from the Brooklyn. The body will be placed on the flagship on the evening of the 1st and the ship will sail for Southampton with Admiral Coghlin aboard.

Children's Day Service at the Evangelical Church.

The services of the Sabbath School, which were held Sunday morning in their church on Willowbank street, were of a most interesting character and consisted of singing, instrumental music, recitations and address by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Brown.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated and the auditorium was crowded to its utmost by the large congregation that was present. Those taking part in the entertainment had been carefully trained and acquitted themselves in a handsome manner.

Water Cure Was Effective.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, June 22.—The citizens of Mingo Junction used the Philippine water-cure Friday to rid the town of about fifty Wabash Railroad laborers, who came here on pay day and spent their money. Since then they have been terrorizing housewifes, and many citizens have been held up and robbed by them. Citizens rounded them up in squads and rushed them to the river, pushed them in, and held them under water until they promised to leave. One negro nearly lost his life in the water-cure.

Powder and Death.

Joe Mulisky, a young man residing with his parents on the Kittelberger farm north of Curwensville, was so badly burned by powder on Thursday that death ensued early Friday morning. It seems his parents kept the powder in a spring house and he, having spied it in the place, set fire to it, blowing the whole top and sides out of the spring house and injuring himself so badly that death came as stated above. He was a young man and well known around the town.

Smallest Man in the World.

Major Gantz, of Fairfield, Ia., claims the distinction of being the smallest man in the world. He is 36 years old, weighs 30 pounds and is 18 inches high. Major Gantz claims the minimum size on the ground that Tom Thumb was 36 inches. Commodore Nutt a trifle taller, and Miss Lavina Stratton still taller. —As the cherry season is at hand housewives should bear in mind that if they put cherries in a bucket of water they can detect the wormy ones by seeing them rise to the top, while the sound, healthy ones, sink to the botton.

—The Mountain City Quartette will give a concert in Petrikin Hall Friday evening, June 27, at 8 o'clock. The general admission will be 25 cents. These young men come to Bellefonte with an excellent reputation as first-class singers.

—Mr. Charles F. Cook accompanied by his family, are camping along the banks of Spring Creek, near Eagle's Nest. Mr. Cook left town on account of the hot wave which has been visiting us for the last few days, Charlie we hope you will find it cool enough for comfort, in the wilds of Benner Township.

Seven Young Men.

Our eagle eyed County Detective, Joseph Rightnour, was in luck Monday. For sometime past there has been complaints that the fish laws were being violated in this neighborhood, so the Sportsmans League started Joe on the trail, which he followed so effectively that he landed seven young men, who had been using the throw-net. This is an easy way of catching fish, but very unprofessional, and in this case quite expensive, besides to use this net is a direct violation of a law upon our statute books, and there is nothing grieves Joe so much, as to see the law violated, particularly if the law has any bearing upon fishing and hunting. Well Joe presented the young offenders before his Honor Justice Keichline, and told how naughty they had been. The Judge had no alternative than imposing a fine or committing them to prison. They preferred paying the fine, which aggregated $70. or $10. each, and the only thing they could do was to reach down in their pockets and hand it over, and we will venture to say that they were the most expensive fish ever caught in Centre County. As Joe got $35. out of the pool, he has no cause for complaint and when he gets back from Erie he is going to try for another stake of the same kind. You see he gets half the fine and it pays pretty well. We will not give the names of the young men as they have already suffered enough, but we will caution them that hereafter they observe the law.

—The engagement of Miss Aurora Moore, daughter of Mrs. Nannie Moore, to Mr. A. C. Otis, of Philadelphia, is publicly announced. Mr. Otis is the representative of the Union Mutual Life Insurance company and stands high in insurance circles.

—Mr. Jerry Donovan laid aside business for a few days in order to go with the boys to Erie. Mr. Donovan resided at one time in that city, but has not been there for fifteen years and he could not resist the cheap fare and Pulman car accommodation to visit his old home.

—On Thursday of last week there was a large barn raised on the site of the one recently burned down on the Al. Bechdel farm. There were about 100 men present who were willing workers. At the noon hour Mrs. Bechdel invited all to partake of an elegant dinner she had prepared for the occasion. So far as we have heard everything went off in first class style.

—On Wednesday morning the 12-year-old son of George Long, a prominent farmer at Romola, met with a serious accident. He was standing by the plow when the team ran away causing the plow line to get around the boy's neck, which cut a deep gash. The boy almost bled to death. He was taken to the office of Dr. Walter Kurtz, where it required four stitches to sew it up. At present the boy is improving.

—The Shoe Firm of Yeager and Davis send off a large illuminated balloon every Saturday to which a card is attached stating that the finder, upon presenting the card at their store, will receive a three dollar and half pair of shoes. Two cards have already been redeemed. The one was found by Mrs. Wasson on the William Wagner farm below Milesburg, the other by Mr. Al. Grove, the dairyman; living on a farm South of Bellefonte. Messrs Yeager and Davis intend sending a balloon from their store every Saturday evening, during the summer months, so be on the lookout for the card.

—Earle, the eigh year old son of Mr. Al. Landis residing on Penn Street, met with a distressing accident Monday evening. He found a cap, or cartridge, at Irvin's Stationery store, and he with another little fellow put it off in front of the Y. M. C. A. building. It caused a terrific explosion, lacerating his hand so badly that Dr. Seibert, the attending physician, was compelled to make fourteen stitches in order to draw the torn parts together. The poor little boy has our sympathy, as at his age he is not to blame. Dealers in these articles should be careful not to allow such things to get into the hands of children.

—Ensign J. D. McIntyre of the Salvation Army, assisted by some of her friends among our citizens, will give a farewell concert in the Court House this evening. The following will take part in the entertainment. Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. Bonbright, Mrs. J. M. Laurie, Misses Laura Rumberger and Ella Twitmyer, Messrs. H. Brown, William Van Tries, C. C. Shuey, J. P. Smith, Walter Whippo, L. A. Schaeffer. Christie Smith's orchestra will also take part. As this is the last time that Ensign McIntyre will appear before a Bellefonte audience we hope there will be a large attendance in order to show our appreciation of her services in our midst.

—The citizens of North Thomas street are wondering where the high constable is in hiding, they have been on the lookout for him for some time past to arrest a few of the cows which are running at large in that section and playing havoc with gardens, terraces and flower beds. These people have been at great expense to make their grounds attractive and should not be subject to the annoyance of sitting up all night to watch these marauders to prevent them from destroying their property. Now, Mr. High Constable, if you want to make a few dollars and keep in the good graces of those good citizens, make a raid on the bovines and put a stop to the trouble.

School Boys Walk One Thousand Miles.

Charles and Wilbur Schenck are ambitious and bright young men who live along the public road between Howard and Eagleville in Bald Eagle valley. They attended the public school at Eagleville and in making the round trip each day walked about seven miles. The Howard "Hustler" says the boys during the past winter traveled about 1000 miles.

—Woodrow Wilson will be inaugurated president of Princeton University, Princeton, N. J., on October 22.

—The ladies of the Presbyterian church of Unionville will serve supper and ice cream on the church lawn on the afternoon and evening of the Fourth.

—Clearfield is having a boom and just now an effort is being made to secure steel works there, the promised being that the industry will come if the Clearfield people buy a certain number of lots cut from a farm near the town. A real estate firm boosting the project holds forth the awful warning that "if the project fails all will agree that Clearfield will fail as flat as Tyrone, from which calamity may the good Lord deliver us." Presumably if this impending disaster cannot hasted the sale of lots at fancy prices nothing can. Glory and growth to Clearfield! The old town has waited patiently a long time for it.

—If our readers notice any unusual disturbance in the neighborhood of the Presbyterian church and chapel next week they need not be alarmed, for it will only be caused by the members of that congregation giving those buildings a cleaning out. The ladies of the church held a meeting this week and decided that it is not good for either their religion or health to attend service where their dainty gowns are so liable to be soiled by coming in contact with the accumulation of the dust of many ages, and they intend giving both buildings a thorough renovation, and to this end will have sub-committees that will be present each day until the work is completed. They have undertaken a big contract, but we know it will be carried through. Everything will be cleaned and polished up, except the theology of the institution, that will remain as it is.

Woman is often referred to by man as" doubling his joys and halving his sorrows." That may be complimentary but it would seem to be rather hard on the Woman. For in plain terms it means that where things are going well with the man his wife makes them go better. But when things are going ill with him, he expects the wife to share half his burden. And there's more truth than poetry in this presentation of masculine selfishness. Men don't appreciate the fact that the strain of motherhood alone is a burden bigger than all the loads that rest upon male shoulders. They see the wife grow thin, pale, nervous and worn without a thought that she is overburdened. Among the pleasant letters received by Dr. Pierce are those from husbands who have waked up before it was too late to the crushing burdens laid upon the wife, and in the search for help have found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a restorative which has given back to the mother the health of the maiden and the maiden's happiness "Favorite Prescription" always helps, and almost always cures. It has perfectly cured ninety-eight out of every hundred women who have used it when afflicted with diseases peculiar to women

This was one of the finest car load of horses that was ever sold in this town. Average price $158.03. This is the 5th car load that he has disposed of here, and gives general satisfaction to buyer and seller.

LEMONT HAPPENINGS.

We are not vain but we can boast of having as pretty a little town with as handsome private residences as one would wish to find anywhere.

John Mitchell, our enterprising hardware merchant, has as full and complete an assortment as can be found in any store in Centre county and he does the business, too. Jack is a hustler.

Mr. George B. Thompson made a business trip to Philadelphia last week.

Mr. E. C. Ross has been shipping several car loads of corn from this station lately.

Miss Helen J. Dreese is in Lock Haven this week the guest of her sister Miriam at the Central State Normal school.

Miss Ruth Bottorf is visiting friends in Philadelphia and expects to stop off at Sunbury on her return trip.

The fine weather we have been having is causing the crops to grow and a decided improvement is noticeable on all growing vegetation.

J. B. Mayes & Son, our enterprising marble and granite dealers, are rushed with orders to such an extent that they work at nights and placed an order for 100 alarm candles to waken them early in the morning. How about it, Docky?

Everyone sympathizes with Wade. It was a cruel turn-down.

Jake Herman has been taking from 20 to 30 pigs to Philipsburg each week and selling them there. I am afraid we will be short of pork this fall if he continues it much longer.

Cherries seem to be very scarce in this vicinity this year.

From the present indications we expect to have plenty of cold-slaw and sauerkraut this fall. If ye editor wants some he knows where to call.

Miss Frances Woodring is spending a vacation at Stormstown.

Miss Edith Dale has gone to Atlantic City to enjoy the salt water breezes for several months and for the benefit of her health.

A. A. Miller, the new mail carrier, wants to hire a private secretary to fan him while he sleeps between trains. Life is surely dealing double doses to him now. Ah, you have surely worked long enough to take a well earned vacation.

Quite a quantity of hay is being shipped from this place at present, which indicates that the farmers are quite certain of having sufficient of the new crop to meet all requirements for the coming year.

The Holy Communion was celebrated in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday by Rev. D. E. Hepler. Preparatory services were held on Friday evening and Saturday morning, conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. Dr. Laurie, of Bellefonte.

The festival held here on Saturday evening by the band proved quite a success, all things considered.

We are fearful of tiring you with our first attempt so we will wipe our pen and quit this time and if our ink isn't dried up till next week you may hear from us again.

ALECK.

Where Pennsylvania is Held.

For several years last past there has been very little change in the number of shareholder in the Pennsylvania. During the past three years the number has been close to 27,000, and at no time has it been over 27,300. Some years ago the stock was more widely scattered, and at one time the number of shareholders amounted to nearly 29,000 Within the past few years there has been an increase in the holdings by New York people, and New York's percentage at this time is greater than it has been. A couple of years ago the English holders parted with some of their stock, which was taken by New York, and ever since there has been an accumulation of Pennsylvania railroad stock in New York. At the present time the holdings in Philadelphia are about 29 per cent. New York holds a like amount and the foreign holdings are also estimated to be about 29 per cent. The holdings in Philadelphia have slightly increased, as having also the holdings in New York, while the foreign holdings are somewhat less. The 13 per cent. remaining is scattered throughout the United States. The foreigners were large subscribers to the new bonds, and recently there has been but little selling of the stock by foreign holders.

Millions of Pineapples.

Dealers do not say "pineapples," but "pines." The art of abbreviation is perfected in America and no commercial abbreviation is ever misunderstood in the trade.

The Moro Castle brought from Havana to New York city 23,000 barrels of pines in her cargo, the Seneca 15,000, the Mexico 16,000 and the Monterey 16,000. The contents of a barrel run from 74 to 120, an average of say, 100, and the pines weigh from 3½ to 12 pounds. Thus within less than one week the receipts of pineapples amounted to 7,000,000. If the average is seven pounds each the total weight is 49,000,000 pounds. The freight is about 70 cents a barrel, which means a revenue of $49,000 for the steamship owners for a week's haul of pines.

—Mrs. Hannah Jones, widow of the late William Jones, who resides on East High Street, is suffering from a stroke of paralysis. Her condition this morning is somewhat improved, and the report of her physician is encouraging.

Snow Ushers in Summer.

MARQUETTE, Mich., June 23.—Saturday, the last day of spring, witnessed the novel spectacle of snow falling in various sections of the upper peninsula. Light flurries were experienced in Marquette. At Ishpeming half an inch came down and at Ironwood nearly two inches fell. A fierce gale is raging on Lake Superior and no boats are able to venture out.

Is Now Governor of the Transvaal.

Persons who grow roses and who are at a loss to know how to kill the little bugs that destroy the beautiful flowers, are hereby informed that a paris green solution, consisting of one teaspoonful of the poison to four gallons of water, will induce the pestiferous insects to turn up their toes in short order.

Might Have Been Worse.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "that horse you bet on"—

"There's no need of bringing the matter up. I know that my judgment was very bad and all that."

"Oh, I wouldn't take it to heart! The horse might have been beaten worse. You must give him credit for getting around ahead of the horses that were entered for the following race."—Washington Star.

Pay Your Debts.

"No, sir," declared Gazzen as he warmed up to his subject, "you'll never be happy so long as you are in debt. Pay your debts, Swayback, pay your debts."

"But I have no money," said Swayback.

"Then borrow it."—Detroit Free Press.

Truth's Chances.

William—The idea of his calling his book a historical novel! It doesn't agree with history even in the slightest particular.

Frederick—And so may be quite true.—Boston Transcript.

MISTAKE SOMEWHERE.

Why the Colonel Stopped His Score of Chinamen at Five.

"I had read," said the colonel as he was relating some of his experiences in China, "that if a person fell into the water no one could pull him out, holding that his falling in was a decree of Providence that must not be interfered with.

"One day on one of the canals I stumbled and went overboard, and, although there were twelve boatmen, not one of them would extend me a hand. After a close shave, as I cannot swim, I got aboard again, and as soon as I recovered my breath I yelled at the boss boatman:

"'You infernal scoundrel, but why didn't you help me out?'

"'It was your fate to fall in,' he calmly replied.

"'And it's your fate to take a good licking!' I said as I went for him.

"When I had finished him off, I took another, and I was just polishing off my fifth victim when the sixth man halted me to say:

"'There seems to be a mistake here. We are taught that if a person falls into the water he must save himself or drown, but we are not taught that if he does save himself he is at liberty to lick half of China in revenge.'

"I thought his point well taken," laughed the colonel, "and I stopped my score at five and went down to change into dry clothes."—Boston Globe.

Apple Trees For Beauty and Fruit.

Apple trees are so beautiful, even when bare of bloom and fruit, that they should be grown in pleasure gardens, like lilacs and laburnums. Tennyson speaks of orchard lawns, and there is no reason except bad taste why they should not have a real existence. The gloom of the fir tree, magnificent no doubt in its own northern forest, is mere incongruous dreariness when it is dotted about a suburban lawn. Nothing will thrive under it, and often it will not thrive itself, but the apple, with all the associated beauty of the countryside, gives us fruit and blossom and grateful shade. In the grass under it will grow daffodils, columbines, irises and many other plants, or it may be trained as a hedge to divide one part of the garden from another and with all these uses may still produce great crops of fruit. It would be a pleasant task for the suburban gardener with his half acre of ground to grow three or four choice apple trees with the care that others give to roses.—London Speaker.

The Palate Lock.

A woman who had solved the servant girl question by importing a buxom young colored girl from Virginia went out to give her orders for dinner one day and was astounded to see the negro sitting on the floor with her hair, or wool, standing out around her head in a black and shiny nimbus. Not hearing the approach of the mistress, the servant went on with her occupation, which was pulling first one curly lock and then another in a way that suggested that she had either lost a fortune or "got religion." The madam stared a moment and then exclaimed:

"For goodness' sake, Betty, what are you doing?'

The maid hurriedly scrambled to her feet and answered:

"Oh, nothin', ma'am. I'ze got a sore throat and was just tryin' to find the lock what would pull mah palate up and cure the tickle."—New York Times.

Saxony's Forests.

Saxony possesses one of the best regulated systems of forestry in the world. The forests of Saxony serve not only the purpose of giving the state a substantial annual revenue, but they add a thousandfold to the scenery of the country, thus attracting many tourists into those parts every summer. The most important feature of the forests, however, is the fact that they keep forever alive the fountains of water which spring from the highlands of the Erzgebirge and Saxon Switzerland. The forests furnish the material and the water the motive power to hundreds of pulp, paper and saw mills, which, in turn, give employment to thousands of men, women and children.

Don'ts For Literary Beginners.

Don't tell the editor what your family or friends or literary acquaintances say of your manuscript.

Don't urge the editor to buy your manuscript because you need the money to help you in contributing to the support of your family or in making your way through college.

Don't assume a jaunty, sarcastic or insistent tone with the editor. Don't coyly ask him to "permit this literary dove to nest in your olive tree or else return it to the ark at the above address."

Don't try to temper the severity of his judgment by sending him pressed flowers with your manuscript or to impress him with your literary power and experience by telling him that you "write on the spur of the moment and never correct."

Bear in mind, in short, that the best way to submit a manuscript is simply to submit it and let it speak for itself.—Franklin B. Wiley in Ladies' Home Journal.

Snow In Venice.

"I saw Venice once under unusual circumstances," said a traveler. "At the time of which I speak that sunny, smiling land was wrapped in snow. Our folks were a bit surprised, but the natives were amazed. To the real Venetians snow is a thing they do not know how to deal with. Many persons remain all day in bed indulging in hot drinks and pass their time in doing nothing. The children, to their extreme satisfaction, are not sent to school, as the streets and squares are covered with snow. Those courageous persons who venture abroad only walk at the slowest pace. To cross a bridge is considered hazardous, if not foolhardy. St. Mark's square is entirely deserted. Even the pigeons are invisible."

Mizpah.

How many people know that the monument that Laban and Jacob set up near the borders of Canaan and called "Mizpah," or a lookout, was erected in suspicion rather than love? The literal meaning was this: "The Lord watch between thee and me when we are absent one from the other, and see that you are not up to some new trick as soon as my back is turned."

So when it is inscribed in an engagement ring it might mean, "The Lord watch and see that you do not flirt when we are absent one from the other."

Those who use the text are sometimes wiser than they know.

Strong Even In Death.

A yew tree almost destitute of branches or bark grows abundantly in the Caucasus to a height of from fifty to sixty feet and a diameter of a little over two feet. It grows slowly, but its timber is almost indestructible except by fire. It is considered superior in durability, appearance and toughness to mahogany, which it otherwise somewhat resembles. In some large forests of this tree it is very difficult to distinguish the live trees from the dead ones, the latter being very numerous and said to stand for 100 years after death without exhibiting decay.

A Puzzle.

Mother (reprovingly to little girl just ready to go for a walk)—Dolly, that hole was not in your glove this morning.

Dolly (promptly)—Where was it, then, mamma?

Of 100,000,000 passengers by sea all the world over fifty lose their lives. Of the same number by rail forty-seven are killed.

Plump Birdie.

She (after the service)—You dreadful fellow! Why did you smile during the offertory?

He—I couldn't help it. There was Miss Addie Pose singing "Had I the wings of a dove." The mental picture of a 200 pounder trying to fly with a pair of four inch wings was too much for me.

Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow,

A Bellefonte citizen tells here a certain cure.

I knew it was from my kidneys, for I had suffered from it prior to that. Sometimes I could hardly straighten after bending forward which greatly interferred with my work. I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills procured them at F. Potts Green's drug store and began using them

I had taken other medicines and worn plasters but I never had anything act as promptly as Doan's Kidney pills. I have been quite free from the trouble ever since."

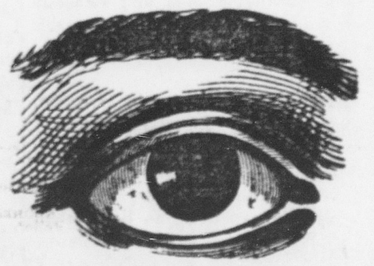
PROF. J. ANGEL

AN EXPERT



Eye Specialist!

of Williamsport, will make his monthly visit here

ONE DAY ONLY,

Thurs. June 26,

from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., with headquarters at

THE GARMAN HOUSE

Bellefonte, Pa.

I can examine your eyes at your home, by appointment, without extra charge.

If you need me at your home drop me a line in care of Garman House.

Hundreds are going blind daily, from the need of the proper prescribed glasses and from delaying attention to the eyes from time to time. Nothing will destroy your eyesight quicker than cheap glasses or glasses not properly fitted to your eyes.

Prof. Angel, in the short time he has been visiting this section, has met with marked success. Scores of leading citizens of this community have found relief from his treatment. It is not necessary to travel to Eastern cities for treatment when you can consult an eminent oculist at home.

Additional Locals.

—The difficulty between the employes and the American Axe and Tool company, at Mill Hall, was adjusted and the works resumed operations Wednesday.

—Among the graduates of Bucknell University at last week's commencement exercises, was George Washington English of Pittsburg. Mr. English is a nephew of Mrs. Morris W. Furey of Spring township.

—Operations were commenced this morning at Gatesburg ore bank which has been standing idle for so long, this will give employment to a great number of people, and consequently put more money in circulation.

—Editor George Meek will please accept thanks for his kindly criticisms in Friday's "Watchman." Out of the whole lot there was only one that hit, but that one struck the bull's eye. Try again, we like to hear from you.

—The little child of a Mr. Miller, residing near Rebersburg, was brought to the Bellefonte hospital Thursday and operated upon for hair lip. It was a distressing case, but we are informed the operation was very satisfactory.

—On Wednesday, June 25th, Misses Sarah Fitzgerald, Daisy Barnes, Helen Harper, of Bellefonte, and Madge Orrie, of Milesburg, graduated from the Central State Normal school at Lock Haven. All of these young ladies are graduates from the Bellefonte High school.

—At a meeting of the local society of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, held Thursday evening, Rev. George I. Brown and Mr. William H. Garman were elected delegates to the National convention of the Brotherhood, which will be held at Boston, Mass., next October.

—Mr. Joseph Wise, master mechanic at the Bellefonte and Nittany furnaces, told a reporter of this paper Thursday night that everything at both places is moving along in the most satisfactory manner. Joe is a good machinist and it will not be through any fault of his should anything occur to retard the work.

—Charles W. Ruble, son of Mrs. Linnie Ruble, of State College, who has been ill since last March, is at present in a very precarious condition. Some weeks ago he had recovered sufficiently to leave his bed, but later the disease broke out anew. Mr. Ruble is one of the most skilled athletes at State and was a junior when he took sick.

—We have been informed that Miss Margaret Kelly, who lived with Mrs. Catharine Curtin for so many years and was with her during her last lingering illness, and who has been residing at Passadena, Cal., for some time, was recently married to Mr, Alva Hollendeck, of that city, the ceremony being performed in St. Andrew's church.

—Joe Rightnour went out man-hunting Thursday and arrested five near Roland who were fishing with dip-nets. Joe brought the gentlemen to Bellefonte and placed them before 'Squire Keichline who sentenced them to pay a fine and cost of prosecution, amounting to about $8 each. Perhaps this will teach others a lesson who do the same kind of fishing nearer to Bellefonte than Roland, and we assure them if Joe Rightnour gets those eagle eyes on them he will bring them up to time.

—Allegheny street, near the Diamond, presented a lively appearance Thursday night. The "bowel" doctor and his aggregation held forth in front of Garman's hotel and the Salvation Army was holding a meeting in front of the Brockerhoff house. Whilst they were both offering remedies for the sick and suffering they were of an entirely different character, the one offering an infallable restorative for the greatest disease suffering man can be afflicted with and guaranteeing an absolute cure, no price being demanded. In order to procure it all that is necessary is simply to ask, and besides being a perfect cure it is permanent, extending not only through this life but through eternity. We need hardly say to our readers that the disease referred to, and from which we are all suffering, is sin. The other doctor could offer only ——

—Hon. Harry R. Curtin, the iron magnate of Boggs Township, who has control of Curtin's Works and is doing so much for the material interests of that place, and incidently filling his own pockets with usufruct, as well as the pockets of the gentlemen associated with him in the business, and who is an all round good man and citizen, was in town Thursday, and congratulated the editor, on the improved appearance of the "News" and "Republican", although like many others, he had a grievance to state, and it is of rather a serious character. He informs us that he has been a reader of the "Daily News" for many years, and has been accustomed to commence at the top of the local columns and read straight through, and in doing so was necessarily compelled to read a local notice, and then take a dose of Kidney Cure, Brazilian Balm or Banner Salve, but since the paper has changed, he has lost track of the order in which he had been taking the remedies. He is in doubt whether it was the Salve he should take first after the local, or whether it was the Kidney Cure or Corn eradicator. We tried to straighten him out, but only partially succeeded, and advised him to try physical culture or take Nerve pills. He decided, however, in order to avoid mistakes, that he would consult his physician.

—Prof. C. D. Kock has been elected supervising principal of the Philipsburg schools.

Charles Shirk, of Boalsburg, had the misfortune to fall from a wagon and received painful injuries.

—Rash Irwin, the efficient clerk at McCalmont & Co.'s store, is confined to his home on North Spring street with sickness.

—Joe Rightnour, who has been so sorely afflicted from the effects of poison ivy, is able to be around again, but is not looking so gay and festive as of yore.

—Messrs. Wm. Thomas, Thos. Sexton, Joseph Lose, David Kelley and Hard P. Harris attended the funeral of Mrs. Joseph Kelleher at Lock Haven Thursday morning.

—N. A. Auman of Millheim, met with a painful accident on Tuesday. While operating a beet-chipping machine his right hand struck a tin can cutting the thumb nail off.

—Painters are busily engaged in freshening the outside of the Reynolds bank building. When they are through it will be greatly improved, as it was getting just a little bit weather-worn.

—P. B. Crider & Son are making extensive improvements to their office at the lumber yard. When completed we will tell you more about them. William L. Steele has the contract for the work.

—Harry Ryan, of Bellefonte, and Miss Mary Jane Durner, of Oak Hall, were married on the 16th inst., in the Central City Hotel parlor, by the Rev. Crouch, pastor of the Milesburg Evangelical church.

—Mr. John Wagner at Milesburg owned a valuable horse which had the glanders which disease is contagious and the State Board of Veterinary Surgeons ordered the animal killed. Mr. Wagner was allowed $40.00 by the state.

—Mary Palmer, aged 25 years, a chambermaid at the Hotel Updegraff, Williamsport, Pa., attempted suicide on Tuesday afternoon by taking a dose of laudanum. Despondency and tired of life are the causes assigned for the rash act.

—The horses to be used by the officers of the Fifth Regiment, N. G. P., at their encampment this year, at Gettysburg, will be taken from Indiana town. Heretofore Mr. Baum, of this place, has had the contract of furnishing the horses for this regiment.

—The notorious Brack Powell has returned to Bellefonte once more. Can't something be done in his case? We were in hopes when he left the last time, that it was for good. We hope our Burgess will instruct his policemen to keep him under strict surveillance during his stay.

—Last Friday Daniel Heaton, of Yarnell, this county, who is employed by the Howard Lumber company, at Emporium, had his skull fractured by being struck on the head by a brake beam of the log train on which he was working. He was taken to the Williamsport hospital.

—It pains us to announce the serious illness of "Jack" the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Montgomery of Linn Street, who is afflicted by a complication of diseases. We join, with their many friends, in the wish that his life may be spared, and that he be restored to perfect health.

—We are glad to announce that Miss Ida Orris who is the efficient stenographer in Hon. A. O. Furst's office received notice today, that she had been selected as the Official Stenographer, for the State Convention of County Commissioners to be held at Gettysburg this summer. Congratulations Miss Ida.

—Most of our readers have seen the great big, noble looking St. Bernard dog following Mr. Charles Hardesty through our streets. We are sorry to note that it was the victim of a dose of poison administered by some miscreant. The dog was a great pet and would harm no one. Mr. H. feels the loss keenly as it was very valuable, he having refused an offer of one hundred dollars for it.

—One feature at the musicale Thursday night, not on the program, was a few words by Miss Bradley to the audience in relation to carrying on conversation during the performance on the piano. There is nothing that so much annoys or disconcerts the performer as having people talk while they are trying their best to entertain them, and it must have been very humiliating to those who were rude enough to disturb the performers by indulging in conversation when so many wanted to hear the music.

—The Central Supply Company, a corporation, that has taken out a charter to trade in general merchandise opened their store to the public Saturday morning. It is located in the building lately vacated by McCalmont & Co. near the P. R. R. passenger station. For the present they expect to handle groceries and provision, but will ultimately place a line of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes on their shelves. As soon as Potter-Hoy Hardware Company remove their goods into the new warehouse being built, this firm will occupy the entire first floor of the building. Mr. Ed. M. Griest, formerly of Unionville, is manager, and will be ably assisted by R. S. Brouse, John L. VanPelt and George Harris. Mr. Henry Tibbens occupying the position of delivery clerk. We trust they will be successful in the new venture.

ALL RUN DOWN.

An Every Day Story—No Appetite No Ambition--Constant Headaches--No Rest--No SleepListless--Languid--All Played Out--A Bellefonte Citizen Gives the Cure.

Soloman Garrett of No. 301. Allegheny St., Bellefonte, Pa., says: —"I had been feeling very much run down and poorly for a long time. My head ached a great deal and I felt tired all over. I was also bothered with sleeplessness at night. I saw Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills so highly recommended I got a box at Krumrine's Drug Store and they did me a great deal of good. I felt first rate after using them and have no hesitation in recommending them to others."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D. are on every package. For sale at Krumrine's Drug Store

—Abraham McCloskey, of Beech Creek, raised a barn 60x75 feet Thursday, About sixty men assisted in the work and feasted on a roasted ox,

—The question asked by many, is, what milliner trimmed the stylish straw hats worn by Sheffer & Son's mules. They look as if they were imported creations.

—Fish warden Rightnour informs us that he has arrested two more young men for illegal fishing. Boys don't you think that it makes the fish come a little high in price to catch them contrary to law.

—The DuBois "Morning Courier" of Wednesday comes to us printed on pink paper, in commemoration of the fourteenth anniversary, since their thriving town was almost annihilated by the fire fiend. It is their custom on the anniversary of this occasion, to call attention to the fact in this manner.

—Dr. Edith Schad is having her handsome double brick house on Thomas street freshened up with a new coat of paint, which is making a decided improvement to the property. We might just add that there are two or three other houses in town which would not be the worse from similar treatment.

—Mrs. H. B. Calloway announces that the marriage of her daughter Magdelene Elizabeth to Mr. George Boal Thompson will take place at the home of Mrs. Louisa Bush, at high noon Thursday, June 26th. It will be a strictly private affair, none but the immediate friends being present at the ceremony.

—The public generally are indebted to Charles R. Kurtz, of the "Democrat," for the convenient railroad train schedule giving the time of arrival and departure of trains. It is gotten up on a large cardboard and if any one gets left after this it will be their own fault. We would advise our business men to hang them in a conspicuous place in their offices and stores.

—Miss Maud Harper entertained a few of her young lady friends at her home Wednesday evening. Everyone had a most enjoyable time. It was given in honor of the Misses Postlewaite, of Chicago, who are visiting their cousin, Mrs. F. W. Crider. We would like to give more particulars, but have been warned by Miss Maud's mother not to do so.

—Although a little late, we wish to make the "amende honorable." A few days ago in writing about observing "Flag Day" we stated that Postmaster Montgomery was the only one in town who did so. Since then we have learned that Master Frederick Reynolds hoisted the national flag over his father's residence where it floated to the breeze throughout the day. Frederick, pardon us this time and we will be more watchful in the future.

—Several of our business men have spoken to us in relation to the article which appeared in our newspaper Thursday, under the caption of "To our Merchants and their Wives." They see the wisdom in the suggestion, and realize the fact that they are losing thousands of dollars worth of trade every year, because no effort is made to draw it to Bellefonte. Would'nt it be a good plan, for those who are interested in the matter, to get together and formulate some plan, that will inure to the benefit of themselves and the town.

—Four good looking young ladies appeared uponour streets Wednesday night, and gave vocal and instrumental concerts at several places, they wore a uniform something similar to the Salvation Army, but on a ribbon worn on the hat was printed "Gospel Workers", upon inquiry we learned that they were the famous quartette of Gospel Workers of Williamsport, who are advertising a Camp Meeting to be held at Pine Station commencing July 11th, they were a most respectable looking party, and had fine voices. After their concert in front of the Bush House they took supper at John Anderons Restaurant.

MOHAMMEDANS AT PRAYER

They Always Respond When the Voice of the Muezzin Calls.

The Mohammedan begins his prayer standing, with his hands outspread and his thumbs touching the lobes of his ears. In this position he repeats certain passages from the Koran, then brings his hands down to his girdle, folds them and recites several other passages from the same book. Next he bends forward, rests both hands upon his knees and repeats three times with bowed head the formula of prayer to God, the most great. Then he rises and cries, "Allah hu akbar!" (God is great) sixteen times.

He then drops forward until his forehead touches the ground between his extended hands. He strikes his head upon the floor at least three times, proclaiming his humility, and often a dozen and sometimes twenty times the act will be repeated, according to his desire to show humility and repentance. He then returns to his knees and, settling back upon his heels, repeats a ritual. Next, arising to his feet, he holds his hands and concludes the prayer, repeating over and again the words, "There is no god but God, and Mohammed is his prophet."

This may be repeated once or a dozen or forty times, according to the piety of the worshiper, and he holds a string of beads in his hands to keep tally. His obligations are then accomplished, but he can go through the same ritual again as many times as he likes. The more frequently he does so the better Moslem he is. His piety is measured by the number of times he repeats his prayers, and, like the Pharisees of the Scriptures, he prays in public places. No matter where he happens to be or by whom he is surrounded, whether at labor in the fields or selling goods in his shop or however he may be employed, the Mussulman never forgets to pray when the voice of the muezzin reminds him that the hour for devotion has arrived.

NOT SO VERY GREEN.

The Florida Man Rather Evened Matters Up With the New Yorker.

When the young man from Florida came to live in New York, he woke up one morning last winter, and, going to the window, he looked out on what was to him a novel scene. It was a snowstorm, the first he had ever seen.

Jumping into his clothes, he ran into the street. He stooped and gathered handfuls of snow and threw them in the air. He jumped into a drift and sent it flying with his feet. He finally lay down and rolled in it, all the time shouting and laughing at the top of his voice.

One of the crowd which had gathered to watch his antics went up to him and told him how his mother used to cure fits and volunteered to try it on him.

"I haven't any fit," the young man said.

"What's the matter with you, then?"

"Why, don't you see the snow?"

"Yes, I see it. What of it? I have seen it before."

"Well, I haven't," said the Florida young man.

"What! You never saw snow before?" asked the astonished questioner.

"Never. Seems strange to you, don't it?"

"It beats any sample of verdancy I ever run across."

"Oh, I don't know," mused the Florida cracker. "Did you ever see an alligator eating a nigger? No? Well, you are not so many after all. I have seen it many times." And, throwing a handful of snow down his shirt collar, he pursued his joyous gambols.—New York Mail and Express.

Quotation Marks.

Speaking of the use of quotation marks, the London Chronicle says:

But why all these inverted commas, "the silly trick of peppering pages with these uncouth bacilli?" You will find none of these bacilli in the Bible. Take this passage, chosen at random:

Now Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye inquire among yourselves of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me; and again, a little while, and ye shall see me?

The modern compositor would set that passage between two brackets of inverted commas, for it is a quote within a quote. But it is beautifully clear as it stands, and among all Biblical misunderstandings no one, we think, has been misled by the absence of an inverted comma.

Wedding at Snow Shoe.

On Wednesday evening the hospitable and ever pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. John Uzzle at Snow Shoe was the scene of a very happy event. It was the giving in marriage of his daughter Miss Rebecca to Mr. James Russell a highly respected citizen and constable of that village.

The wedding ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. T. S. Faus of the Methodist Church. After which a sumptous wedding dinner was served. This paper wishes the young couple unbounded success through life and in the words of Rip Van Winkle. "May they both live long and prosper."

—New York raises more potatoes than any other state. The annual crop of New York is approximately 30,000,000 bushels. Michigan ranks next with about 17,000,000 bushels annually. The total production in all the states is something over 200,000,000 bushels.

TAKING CHANCES.

People Who Will Learn Only by a Perilous Personal Experience.

As a rule experience is profitable only to the individual who obtains it. When the aged man tries to save youth from mistakes such as he made, the youth smiles to himself: "The idea of that old fossil thinking that an up-to-date young man is going to make mistakes." It is a peculiar trait of human nature that each man thinks he is a little smarter than the others, and that he will succeed where others failed. "Oh, yes," says Smith, "I know that poor Jones got capsized in the rapids, but Jones never was a good hand at the paddle. It's a pity people like Jones will take such chances." And he smilingly launches his canoe to follow Jones alike in his feat and in his failure.

THE EXTREME OF FOLLY.

The most foolhardy man who ever risked his life, or the most infatuated gambler who ever risked his fortune, is a sage compared with the man who attempts to get the best of Nature. The foolhardy man may succeed. The gambler may win. But the man who takes chances with Nature is bound to lose. If the obituaries of tens of thousands who are cut down annually in life's prime were truly written death would not be attributed to this or that form of disease, but to an attempt to evade the necessary laws of health.

The weak spot in the modern man is his stomach. It is in disease of the stomach that many of the maladies begin which carry off the busy men of the day. The seed of disease once planted in the stomach grows and spreads like some climbing parasite about a tree. It throws out a tendril about the heart and presently another which grips the lungs, and others again which take hold of kidneys and liver. Then suddenly the man is smitten by heart disease or lung disease; or succumbs to some malady of kidneys or liver. The real seat of disease is the stomach. And one of the reasons why the diseases of the other organs often fail of a cure is that the treatment ignores the stomach, and attempts to treat directly the other organs, whose diseases are only symptoms of disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

THERE'S PLENTY OF PROOF

of the soundness of the proposition that diseases of other organs remote from the stomach which are caused by disease of the stomach must be cured through the stomach, and, in fact, cannot be cured in any other way. The best proof in the world is that Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a stomach and blood medicine, cures diseases of heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, etc., by curing diseases of the stomach and digestive and nutritive systems.

"For six long years I suffered with my liver, kidneys, and indigestion, which baffled the best doctors in our country," writes Mr. E. L. Ransell, of Woolsey, Prince William Co., Va. "I suffered with my stomach and back for a long time and after taking a quantity of medicines from three doctors, I grew so bad I could hardly do a day's work. Would have death-like pains in the side, and blind spells, and thought life was hardly worth living. I decided to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce and his staff of physicians. They said my case was curable and I was greatly encouraged. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets,' as advised. Before I had taken half of the second bottle I began to feel relieved. I got six more bottles and used them, and am happy to say I owe my life to Dr. Pierce and his medicines. These words are truths, as I live, so if this testimonial can be used in any way to be of benefit you need not hesitate to use it. I shall stand for the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute as long as life lasts."

DON'T DELAY.

Disease never leaps on a man like a lion from ambush and strikes him down at a blow. However suddenly a man may be stricken and however deadly the disease, the time was when it was a little thing, easy of control. If you are suffering from indigestion, dyspepsia, or any form of stomach "trouble," don't put off the proper treatment. "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition at any stage, but the cure will be quicker the earlier it is begun.

"For twelve long months I suffered untold misery," writes Mrs. Mollie Colgate, of Randolph, Charlotte Co., Va. "No tongue could express the pain that I endured before I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicine. I was not able to do anything at all. Could not eat anything except bread and tea—or if I did the top of my head hurt so it seemed it would kill me; with all that I could do it would burn like fire, but now since taking 'Golden Medical Discovery' I can eat a little of almost anything I want and can do a good day's work as well as anybody can. Am better than I have been for years. I think your medicine is the best that ever was made, for it is the only thing that ever did me any good. I tried many other kinds, but none did me any good but your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription.' I can never praise them too highly to any one who suffers as I did."

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write therefore without fear as without fee to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and other narcotics.

Do not allow a dealer for the sake of making a little more profit to foist on you a substitute as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine so good for you.

SHARP IN CONTRAST

The Conditions Governing the Present as Well as Future in Business.

COAL STRIKE A FEATURE

Scarcity of Pig Iron Causing a Noticeable Stiffening in Price—Rail Order Refused.

FAILURES DURING THE PAST WEEK

NEW YORK, June 21.—Bradstreet's today says:

Conditions governing present and future trade show very sharp contrasts. While the immediately present situation is clouded by the rather less favorable industrial outlook and the prospect of an extension of the coal strike in the bituminous fields, the continued favorable progress made by all the leading crops lends assurance that if only the present strained condition of industrial affairs is relieved a large and prosperous fall and winter business is assured.

It, of course, must be borne in mind that the coal trade troubles, though making their influence felt in a wider area than ever before, are still comparatively localized and, outside of regions immediately affected, in such places as the central west, the southwest and the northwest, business both present and for future delivery, is of good volume, in most instances in excess of a year ago.

The supply of anthracite coal is slowly ebbing and the use of soft coal is growing despite city ordinances. The strike is causing some additional furnaces to shut down and thus accentuating the scarcity in the eastern part of the country.

Prices of farm products show the influence of growing crop conditions. Wheat is one exception to the general weakness, but this is largely due to bad weather reports from Europe. Corn closes lower on the flattering outlook for the growing crops. Oats are likewise affected

The scarcity of pig iron is causing a noticeable stiffening in prices. Structural material and bar iron are strong, but wire and sheets are dragging and some tinplate mills will shut down shortly. An order for 28,000 tons of steel rails for South Africa, for delivery this year, has been refused because of orders ahead preventing delivery.

Business failures in the United States for the week number 177 against 165 last week and 188 in this week last year.

—The U. S. Civil Service Commission will hold examinations, during September and October, in several places in each state to secure young men and women for the government service. There are now 128,423 positions in the classified civil service, being an increase of 46,736 in six years. There were 7,972 persons appointed between July 1, 1901, and April 15, 1902, being at the rate of 10,070 for the year. There will probably be 11,000 appointments next year. Salaries at appointment vary from $660 to $1,200 a year with liberal promotions afterward All appointments are for life and for most positions only a common school education is required. Politics or religion is not considered. Those desiring to take examinations of this kind can get full information about them free by writing to the Columbian Correspondence College, Washington, D. C., and asking for its Civil Service Catalogue for 1902.

Ten Years in Bed.

R. A. Gray. J. P., Oakville, Ind., writes: "For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys. It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a Godsend to me." C. M. Parrish.

Home from Mt. Airy.

The Mt. Airy Institution for Mutes, near Philadelphia, last week sent its five hundred mute children to their homes in various parts of Pennsylvania and neighboring states. About twenty came through Montandon, fifteen going north and five on the Lewisburg and Tyrone branch—Mary Wittes, Mifflinburg; Edith Boozer, Centre Hall; Stella Hagan, Rena Strunk and Willie Strunk, Bellefonte. The children were neatly clad, well behaved and had a jolly good time while speeding over Cassatt's railroad.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

The Panama Hat.

The Panama hat is the craze in all America just now.

Among the false notions regarding Panama hats—and there are prevalent a great many—is that of its origin. The name, in the first place, would lead one to believe that the fabric is manufactured in Panama, whereas the fact is that Ecuador, Colombia and Guayaquil produce two-thirds of all the Panamas in the market. The city of Panama is merely a shipping port for these hats brought from other places. It is the metropolis for the northern part of South America.

Another erroneous idea that prevails is that the natives weave these precious hats under water. The belief probably owes its origin to the method of soaking the raw materials in water prior to their being woven. There is nothing extraordinary about this, the object being merely to soften the "straw" so that it will be pliable and easy to handle.

To call a Panama a straw hat is, by the way, incorrect for it is not made of straw at all; the material used in its manufacture is either stem of a palm leaf or a rare sort of grass that grows in South America. The natives are very deft in curing and weaving both of these products. The palm they tear in shreds with their teeth until it spreads out fan shape. After a long soaking, the palm stem is taken out of the water and nailed on a rough-looking block, at which the workman sits for weeks at a time carefully putting in place shred after shred.

Happy Time in Old Town

"We felt very happy," writes R. N. Bevill, Old Town, Va., "when Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured our daughter of a bad case of scald head." It delights all who use it for cuts, corns burns, bruises, boils, ulcers, eruptions. Infallible for piles. Only 25c at Green's Pharmacy.

Loafing at the Railroad Station.

We do not wish to be considered chronic growlers, or common scolds, but there are many things occurring in a town of our size which are deprecated by the people, though they are not in a position to publicly call attention to them. With an editor it is entirely different, for through the columns of his paper he reaches hundreds of our citizens and some among them will aid him in abolishing any evil that effects us as a community and will assist him in elevating the morals, especially of our young people.

One evil we desire to call attention to today is the congregating of loafers at the Pennsylvania railroad station, particularly when the night train comes in. It is a great annoyance to the passengers and railroad officials, and night after night the same boys and girls are to be seen at that place. It is bad enough for the young men, but what attracts the girls is more than we can understand, and not one of them who has any self-respect would be a common loafer at a place of that kind. It would be far better for them to be at home learning to sew, or improving their minds by reading, and they would be much more thought of. Now, don't do it any more, for if the practice is continued we will agitate the subject until the railroad policemen make it decidedly unpleasant for you.

Interesting to Asthma Sufferers.

Daniel Bante, of Otterville, Iowa, writes: "I have had asthma for three or four years and have tried about all the cough and asthma cures in the market and have received treatment from physicians in New York and other cities, but got very little benefit until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar which gave me immediate relief and I will never be without it in my house. I sincerely recommend it to all." C. M. Parrish.

McKinley Postal Cards.

The new McKinley postal cards will appear at the postoffice for sale in about a month. Its chief and most valuable feature, in distinction from former issues, is the abolition of the coarse black type on top of the face of the card, and the substitution of a thin black letter line consisting of the words "Postal Card," but so far sunk as to leave a blank space of about an inch across the upper half of the card, which is to be reserved for postmarking. Opposite the portrait of the late President is the seal of the United States. This was put on partly to balance the stamp and make the face of the card symmetrical, and partly for educational purposes, as someone has made the discovery that a very large percentage of American citizens do not know what this symbol of governmental authority looks like.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitts Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. C. M. Parrish.

Warning!

If you have kidney or bladder trouble and do not use Foley's Kidney Cure, you will have only yourself to blame for results, as it positively cures all forms of kidney and bladder diseases. C. M. Parrish.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels means a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." C. M. Parrish.

NO PAPER NEXT WEEK.

Next week being Fourth of July week we will observe the long established custom and omit an issue of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN. We wish all our friends and patrons a happy time on the Glorious Fourth. Put aside business cares and celebrate the birthday of our National Independence according to your taste and opportunities.

After next week the REPUBLICAN will reach you without irregularity full of news, good news, with news about your friends your neighbors and your countrymen.

—Mr. J. H. Sands is having his buildings on High and Allegheny streets dressed up with a new suit of paint.

—Miss Mae Hudson entertained a few friends Friday evening at the residence of F. H. Thomas, Esq., at whose home she is visiting.

—The many friends of Miss Belle K. Rankin will be pleased to learn of her engagement to Mr. Frank McFarlane, of Boalsburg.

—Harold, the three-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Will Mayes, of Howard, one day last week met with what might have been a very serious accident. In some manner the little tot fell out of the kitchen window, a distance of about six feet, onto a hard stone walk. His face and head was badly bruised, and at first it was thought he was hurt internally, but we are glad to say that he is resting very easy. We hope that he may soon recover.

—Mrs. Mary F. Blanchard, Mrs. J. W. Gephart, Miss Christine Blanchard and Frederick Blanchard, Esq., spent Wednesday at "The House of Lords" returning home Thursday. This is becoming a famous resort for some of our people and during the summer it is occupied a greater part of the time. It is situated on the top of Nittany Mountain about two miles west of the road leading to Centre Hall, affording a beautiful and extended view of Penns Valley, and is removed just the right distance from the bustle, noise and confusion of our busy metropolis, that it is a mecca for the tired business or professional man or woman to go, to enjoy absolute rest and quiet.

—Frederick Blanchard, Esq., Barrister and society man in general, appears on our streets, shambling along with the aid of a cane, which he carries with much ease and dignity. From his gait, it was difficult to determine whether it was rheumatism, gout or corns, that was causing him the trouble. We thought it singular that it should be rheumatism, as during the last week, that disease has been entirely eradicated from our community, but upon inquiry we learned that it is a case of pure and simple gout, caused by high living and the use of too many cigarettes. We trust he will soon recover, but would suggest that for the next month he lives entirely upon hygienic food.

—Mr. J. M. Laurie, the popular bookkeeper of the Centre County Banking Co., lives in a cozy home on Howard Street, and after the arduous labors of the day, you will find him, these pleasant June evenings, working in and beautifying the grounds surrounding his home. He is devoted to floraculture, and is very successful, judging from the thrifty appearance of his plants and flowers. He has his own ideas as to their cultivation, for instance, he thinks there is nothing better than coal ashes to promote their growth, at least that was what he was applying last evening as the writer passed. He is ably assisted, in his work, by Mrs. Laurie, who stands over him with a broom to see that things are properly done.

—Overseer Samuel Diehl was a victim of a practical joke Friday evening. It seems that while he was standing in the crowd listening to the concert on the Diamond, some wag dropped a live fish in his coat pocket. A little later reaching his hand in his pocket (we suppose for a dollar) it came in contact with the fish, which was wriggling around, wondering where it was at. He gave a yell that would have made a Camanche Indian turn green with envy, and which almost put a stop to the show. His friends gathered around him and took him to one side, when upon questioning him as to the cause of his boisterous conduct, he said, "Boys I have not drank any thing for three weeks, does it last that long? I did not see snakes, but felt them. I guess I will go home." He also said "I thought I had a snake in my pocket," and some one reaching in pulled out a little three inch trout. Sam gave a great sigh of relief and as he walked towards home remarked, "That a political life was not the best thing for the man who is trying to live right."
